CBA Seeking Answers To Broadway Problems

Kingston Hospital Considers Building Outside the City

KINGSTON

Kingston Hospital, on the recommendation of its consultants, is giving serious consideration to the construction of a brand new hospital, in all liklihood outside the city limits.

The proposal to relocate from its Broadway site where the hospital started 50 years ago, was considered "most feasible among several alternatives" studied by Cresap, McCormick and Paget, Inc., management consultants engaged by the hospital to take an objective look at its long range plans.

Wilbur R. Peters, president of the Kingston Hospital Board of Trustees, emphasized that the proposal to relocate is only one of several alternatives under consideration. There are basically two others, both involving on-site expansion. Reportedly, one alternative would provide for minor expansion to allow the hospital's needs over the next ten years while the other would involve major expansion through acquisition of the old city hall property to the north and construction of a parking garage.

The trustees have been aware of the problems for some time which Peters articulated at the annual board meeting in January thusly:

"Expansion over the next decade will occur—is it to be this site or elswhere?" he asked. "If we remain, the ingress and egress to our hospital area must be improved. This has to be coordinated with our proposed parking structure or parking area—which not withstanding the gasoline shortage, must provide for 300 or more cars."

The consulting firm reportedly made a strong case for relocating outside the city. Today's press release from the hospital stated, "In enumerating the advantages of relocating, the consulting firm noted that a new site could afford greatest accessibility to the area's population, particularly to the faster-growing New Paltz area, most convenient traffic patterns and circulation, least construction interference and disruption, greater expansion potential and better topographic and soil conditions."

The press release stated that the consultants had already interviewed representatives from the Northern Metropolitan Hospital Review and Planning Council and "anticipated it would view the development of a new replacement hospital 'in a favorable light'."

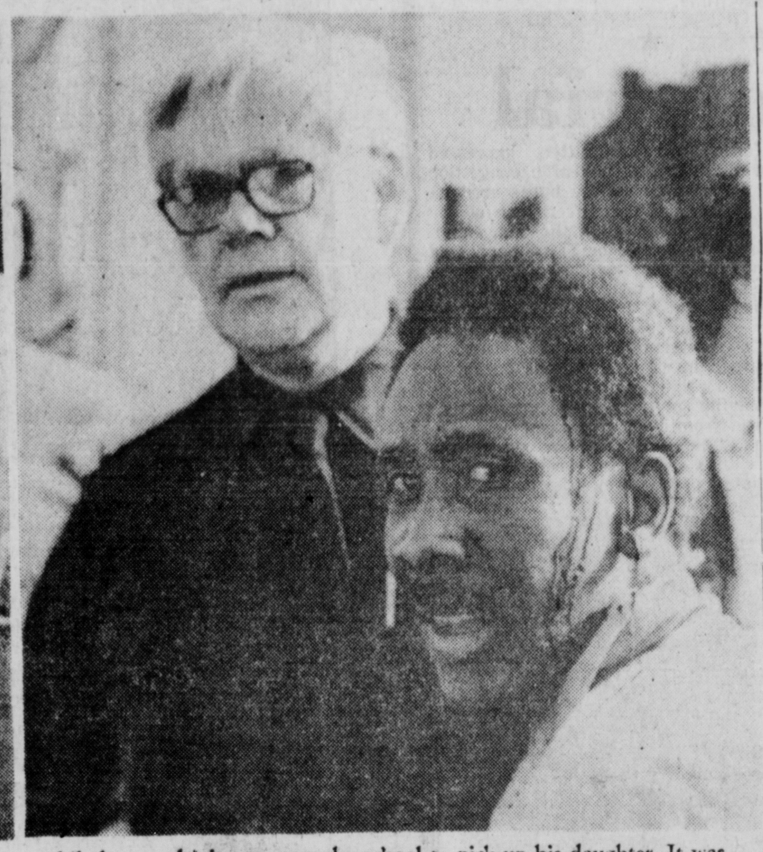

Study of the various alternatives is continuing including preparation of an in-depth financial feasibility study and projections of patient care activity through 1985.

"In the event the hospital did relocate," the press release said, "the disposition of the present complex would remain to be decided, with several possibilities under study." One of the possibilities, reportedly, is conversion of the present facility into a nursing home although even that is expected to be expensive due to substantial alterations involved.

Along the lines of further study of its expansion problems, the hospital has established a panel of leading area citizens to advise the Board of Trustees.

The 25-member Advisory Council met for the first time on Oct. 3 to hear a report from the hospital's consultants on their recommendations for expansion and to ask questions of hospital officials, headed by Peters and Anthony R. Triulzi, hospital administrator.

A woman demonstrator struggles with police (photo left) after she was arrested in Boston Monday during a melee between whites and police. The incident began when 31-year-old Jean Louis Andre, his face bloodied in the photo at right, was kicked and clubbed by a band of whites while he was driving to a nearby school to pick up his daughter. It was the worst outbreak of racial violence since the desegregation order for Boston's public schools went into effect. (UPI TELEPHOTOS)

Congressmen Unenthusiastic About Surtax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The idea of imposing heavier taxes on the middle class aroused no enthusiasm today in a Congress which is about to go home to seek re-election.

Congressmen said they would have to be convinced by President Ford if —as widely expected —he makes a 5 per cent surtax the keystone to his program to fight inflation.

To prepare public opinion for Ford's program of austerity, the White House used harsh and rarely employed terms — "restraint, self-discipline and sacrifice."

Ford, acting after a month of consultations with every element of the public at the summit, was going before a joint session of Congress with his proposed solutions to the problems of inflation, energy housing, interest rates and unemployment. It was scheduled for late afternoon, and White House press secretary Ron Nessen confirmed that it had been timed to come after the New York stock markets close.

Related stories, photo on page 22.

Asked if a surtax proposal was likely to hurt Republicans at the polls four weeks from today, Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill., replied: "Frankly, yes. I dont believe you ever recommend a tax increase without having to be concerned ..."

To deal with a deep-set inflation and a simultaneous economic downturn —and the threat of fuel shortages which could make both worse —Ford was expected to propose:

—A surtax of about 5 per cent on the income taxes middle and upper income individuals and corporations will pay next spring on 1974 earnings.

—A program to make local and state governments "employers of last resort" for those thrown out of work in the current stalemate. Up to 500,000 public service jobs — in parks, hospitals, schools — might be created.

—A stiff $300 billion spending ceiling, involving a $5 billion budget cut, for the current fiscal year. This would serve as a signal to the Federal Reserve to allow interest rates to climb down from their current peaks.

—Tax aid to some hard-pressed industries, including housing and utilities, which need to expand to meet demands.

—Other tax incentives to spur investment in business and to induce people to save.

—An appeal for sharp but voluntary cutbacks in energy consumption with a warning that dim-outs and rationing might be the alternatives.

Members of the House Ways and Means Committee said they doubted Congress could adopt so comprehensive a program in the 30 days left after it returns from electioneering.

Some members said they doubted the public would be brought to support higher taxes at a time when almost everything else was costing more too.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he would want a surtax limited to those who earn over $20,000 a year. By some reports, Ford was planning one that would hit couples earning over $15,000 or single people earning half that much.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was flatly opposed. "An income tax surcharge is no more satisfactory than an increase in the gasoline tax as a way of raising new federal revenues, and the surcharge ought to be relegated to the discard heap ..." he said.

Federal Marshals Summoned to Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — Mayor Kevin H. White called today for at least 125 federal marshals to be sent to racially troubled South Boston to help protect children and to implement a court ordered plan to integrate public schools by busing.

The motion was filed with the clerk of the U.S. District Court in Boston by assistant City Corporation counsel Kevin Maloney.

It called on Judge W. Arthur Garrity "to enter an order requiring that not less than 125 marshals be assigned to the South Boston district."

Attached to the motion was a five page letter to Garrity from White detailing the racial violence in South Boston and explaining why federal assistance was needed.

Earlier, black children were kept out of South Boston schools by city officials and police, strengthening earlier reports that White and NAACP leaders would call for federal marshals to be sent to Boston.

Thomas I. Atkins, president of the Boston branch of the NAACP, also was expected to seek an appearance before Garrity today.

The action followed the worst day of violence since the court order a month ago. Thirty-three persons were arrested Monday in two outbreaks of violence and a mob of whites, some carrying sticks, chased and beat a black man whose car was stuck in traffic at a South Boston intersection.

Police were stationed this morning at areas where black children are picked up for busing. The children were told they would not be taken to schools in South Boston today. Instead, they were taken to other sites for discussions and some classes.

Prior to his court appearance, Atkins said "it is widely agreed that the police cannot maintain order on the scale of violence" which exists, especially in South Boston, Hyde Park and Roslindale.

George Regan, assistant press secretary to White, said the mayor will not call for armed federal troops to be sent to Boston.

Atkins said the situation in South Boston was so bad "any black person, or person of any color, who goes into the area will be set upon by animals." He added that some people in Hyde Park and Roslindale were determined not to allow blacks to go to school there.

The lives of the black children are being threatened every day, Atkins said.

In the beating incident, a crowd of several hundred angry whites gathered near the Old Colony housing project just as a nearby school was letting out.

They formed a human chain to block buses carrying black pupils home, but the buses managed to avoid the crowd.

"There's a nigger!" some of them cried, catching sight of Jean Louis Andre, 31, whose car was caught in traffic.

Andre leaped out of the car and ran down the street, but the crowd ran him down and beat him.

Fifteen persons were arrested after 400 police officers broke up the crowd. Andre was bleeding from his face after he was rescued, but he was not hurt badly enought to be hospitalized.

Police Commissioner Robert diGrazia ordered an immediate ban on liquor sales at bars and package stores in the area.

In another incident, 18 persons were arrested after about 200 whites gathered in front of the Roslindale High School before classes, and some threw rocks at buses bringing blacks to the school.

Despite the racial violence, citywide attendance increased to 72.5 per cent, up more than 20 per cent over last Friday when whites boycotted classes to show their opposition to busing.

Deputy Mayor Robert Kiley was bombarded with questions by angry black parents concerned about the safety of their children at a meeting Monday night with blacks and whites at Action for Boston Community Development.

He said police have worked round the clock and performed well "under the circumstances."

But, he added, "the police are stretched to the maximum. They are barely able to contain the situation."

Gunmen Invade Lake Katrine Home

LAKE KATRINE

Two gun-toting, masked bandits burst into a small house in a secluded wooded area of Lake Katrine early today, brutally killed a German Shepherd watchdog, and robbed five frightened occupants of an estimated $1,800 in cash.

Police are now trying to determine what prompted the daring early morning raid, and what has become of the two men who pulled it off.

Teletype messages have been rushed to police agencies throughout the region, detailing the crime and describing what little police know about the perpetrators. Authorities apparently have no substantial leads in the case.

Senior BCI Investigator Michael A. Lisman, who is heading the local investigation, said today that both intruders wore ski masks, ruling out any facial descriptions. He added that police have no other clues that might reveal the identity of the two men.

The crime took place at about 1.10 a.m. today at a two-story house off Old Stage Road in Lake Katrine occupied by 21-year-old David Guido. Old Stage Road runs parallel to Route 9W in the northern end of the Town of Ulster; Lisman said that the house is located "far into the woods" off the road.

Five persons were inside the house at the time; four in an upstairs bedroom. An unidentified girl was downstairs in the kitchen, with the watchdog.

Without warning, one of the thugs, standing outside the house, smashed the glass out of a kitchen window with the stock of a double-barrel shotgun. When the watchdog approached the window, the gunman shot and killed the animal.

At the same time, the second bandit, carrying a pistol, burst through the front door of the house. Police allege that he demanded money from the occupants. About $1,800 in cash was placed on the kitchen floor. The robber scooped up the money and ran out of the house.

According to Lisman, the girl who was in the kitchen hid in fright when the first gunman smashed through the kitchen window. The state police investigator said she apparently was not detected by the two robbers.

Lisman also revealed that an unexplained shot was fired by the pistol-wielding intruder during the robbery. No one inside the house, however, was injured.

"The whole incident took about three minutes to complete," said Lisman, "they didn't waste any time." He added that it still hasn't been determined whether the bandits escaped in a car.

Dinnerstein Resigns Action Post

KINGSTON

Ulster County's Community Action chief, Joel Dinnerstein resigned his post today to accept a position as director of Home Health Services for the Dutchess County Family Counseling Service, a United Way agency.

Dinnerstein, who was selected a year ago from a field of 36 applicants to serve as executive director of Ulster County Community Action pledged his full cooperation in an orderly transition to the next administration. Accepting the post in Poughkeepsie affords Dinnerstein opportunity to work in his home county of Dutchess. He is a resident of Hopewell Junction.

Dinnerstein is credited with having done an outstanding job of pulling the Ulster County Community Action agency together and redirecting the entire operation into an effective and unified organization, according to Rick Jacob, Ulster County planner and member of Community Action's Board of Directors.

Under Dinnerstein's leadership, the Action Agency saw the development of a hot-line for the rural poor. Problems of health, medicaid, public assistance, drugs and alcoholism, consumer complaints, employment and legal concerns were accepted through the hot-line.

Nutrition grants were implemented for senior citizens and the agency opened an energy crisis center to aide residents during the fuel and gas shortage. Most recently the agency announced an additional $8,000 grant for the purpose of early childhood screening in the Head Start Day Care Program.

Jacob said the Community Action Board is now beginning to screen applicants to fill the vacancy created by Dinnerstein's resignation.

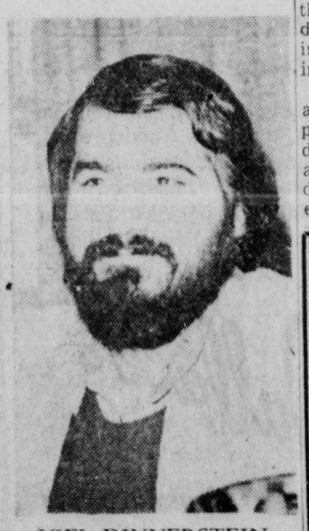

Dinnerstein came to the Action Agency as a former staff member of the Office of the Mayor and the Comprehensive Health Planning Agency in New York City where he served during the administration of Mayor John Lindasy.

He started his career in social work in 1965 in rural West Virginia and spent several years with the Office of Economic Opportunity in disadvantaged ghetto areas of New York City.

In 1971, Dinnerstein, who attended the Graduate School of Public Administration at New York University, received national recognition for his leadership in the development of comprehensive community health planning techniques. Under his model plan, he involved and united 260 health and health-related agencies, local community groups and organizations for the purpose of planning for new health services and facilities in an area with a population of 200,000.

Under Dinnerstein's direction, Community Action was able to secure funds for day-care services for children, drug rehabilitation programs and programs in mental health and mental retardation.

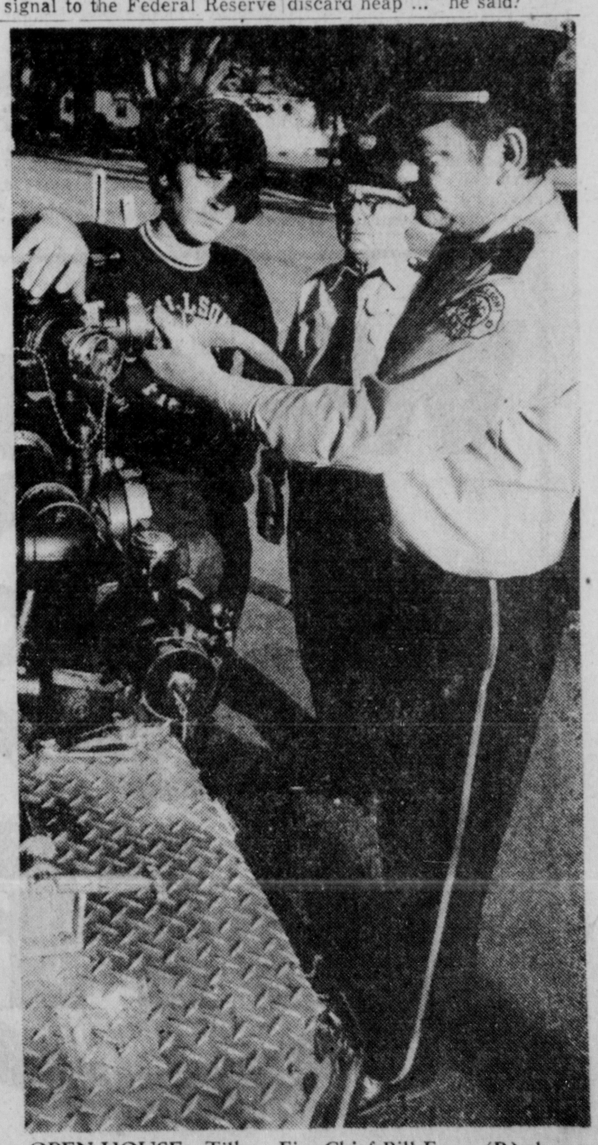

In letter of resignation to the president of Community Action's board, James Fitzgerald, Dinnerstein said his tenure as director here in Ulster County has been marked with real challenges and he will miss working with the dedicated staff and many friends of the agency throughout the county.

Businessmen Seek Answers For Broadway Area Problems

By TIM SCHUSTER

KINGSTON

The Central Businessmens Association wants a large chunk of the city planner's time to concentrate on the myriad problems besetting those doing business in the central Broadway district.

At Monday night's Association meeting ideas were discussed in preparation for a Thursday night session at City Hall when the businessmen will meet with Alderman Philip DeCicco, (D-9th Ward) chairman of the Central Broadway Committee of the Common Counil.

Frustrations were aired at the informal session, primarily a feeling of neglect by the city's administration when urban renewal projects are continuing uptown and downtown.

Besides President Sy Blas and Secretary Irwin Sandak, others at the meeting who will present the Association's "demands" Thursday night include George Loughran, John Rapp, Edward Arace, Herb Nestell, Dan Walters, Ted Hudela, and Mr. and Mrs. Ward DuBois, all business people of central Broadway.

Blas kicked off the discussion by reading a letter from Robert Pritchard, city planner, to the Association and his own reply to that letter.

Pritchard's August letter generally stated that "policy has postponed development" at the state and federal level due to the lack of funds for urban development, adding that DeCicco is available to receive ideas on midtown.

Blas's reply succinctly asked for planning now, before any funds are available, so concrete plans may be readied in the event some money is shaken loose somehwere.

Some of the specific problems mentioned were: poor traffic flow on Broadway, due to a "bottleneck at the upper end and narrow lower end;" an increased drug peddling problem on midtown Broadway, which members linked to the Outreach Center and deterioration of the neighborhood; an "obsolete" master plan for the city that has not been updated since 1959 and, as such, is virtually worthless; and the lack of time spent by the city planner in the midtown area.

"They're going to spend $1 million uptown to knock down buildings on North Front Street so people can see the plaza," declared George Loughran. "They tell us there are no federal funds for Central Broadway, but there are plenty for uptown. They ought to call that the New Kingston."

There was some talk of pushing the idea of a shopping plaza on central Broadway, which has been bandied about for some years, and professional advice from the city planner will be sought on the advisability of that concept, it was agreed.

Sandak complained bitterly of the narcotics problem in the vicinity of the Colonial Lounge and a few other nightspots where he claimed drugs were being peddled openly from the sidewalks while police looked on and did nothing.

And he said that after the city abandoned the rehabilitation center in the old O'Reilly Building and the county took it over about a year ago "the drug problem has tripled." Sandak claimed that the program now brought in drug-related persons from all over the county, affecting business and normal sidewalk traffic.

"We went to see (Police Chief Juljus) Glassman six months ago," he said. "This is counter productive to having people on the street. They should put it out in the country somehwere. The same thing happens when they open a storefront center in New York City."

It was expressed by several persons that the city had created a problem in the midtown area in attempting to erase it from downtown. The neighborhood southwest of Broadway was described as "deteriorating."

"We feel betrayed by the administration of the city," declared Blas. "The taxpayers and businessmen are getting no return."

The Association is going to ask the Common Council for a lion's share of the city planner's time to update the master plan and to develop proposals for midtown. "We are not asking, we are demanding," said Sandak.

"We're not asking for $1 million," commented Blas. "We just want the city planner's time."

Aldermen Answer Editorial

KINGSTON

Aldermen Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward), and Peter J. Mancuso (D-12th Ward), have taken exception to an editorial in Thursday's Freeman that was critical of the Common Council for failure to act on a redevelopment proposal in the Uptown Urban Renewal Project.

Citing a variety of "nit-picking reasons" and "pettiness on the part of the Common Council" for not approving the designation of James A. Berardi Inc. to build a "modern, accessible" bus terminal on Washington Avenue, the Freeman urged the aldermen to get on with the business of progress.

Sinsabaugh, chairman of the Council's Urban Renewal Committee and Mancuso, majority leader of the Council, allowed that "an editorial is an opinion which a person is entitled to," but contended that the reasons for holding back approval of Berardi were substantial and "had to be checked out before we could responsibly could continue."

Sinsabaugh mentioned allegations and accusations raised by Roland A. Augustine on Monday, Sept. 20, only 24 hours before the Council went into regular session on Oct. 1.

"I felt it was my responsibility, as urban renewal chairman, to check out the allegations made," Sinsabaugh said.

"After some facts were brought out it was the opinion of all concerned that delay for further study was warranted," Mancuso added.

Sinsabaugh is chiefly concerned that Berardi, a local contractor who has carried out a number of contracts for the agency, may have been in violation of city plumbing codes when he installed plastic piping underneath Clinton Avenue Extension. Sinsabaugh offers as evidence a letter of April 26, 1971 from the City Plumbing Board to the urban renewal agency where the plumbing board unanimously agreed that cement lined plastic pipe (on Clinton Avenue Extension) was against city codes and that no connections could be made to those lines.

Sinsabaugh also notes that Metropolitan Life Insurance Company on Clinton Avenue Extension had to run special lines to by-pass the plastic pipe.

Augustine, who built the Colonial Cooperative Insurance building on Clinton Avenue Extension, also had to by-pass the plastic pipe in order to get city approval to hook up his building, Sinsabaugh said.

Mancuso, who is also chairman of the Council's Traffic Control Committee, expressed concern as to traffic congestion being caused by buses arriving and departing from one of the busiest areas in the city. Neither Mancuso or Sinsabaugh said they were aware of any traffic studies prior to agency approval of Berardi.

Both contend that the delays will be no longer than necessary to investigate various questions on the project. "That's one of the reasons we're in recess" (from the regular meeting), Mancuso said. "We can act on this as soon as we have all the facts from the aldermen to consider."

NEW ENVIRONMENTAL CHIEF — Gov. Malcolm Wilson, acting on his call for more women in top state posts, swears in Mrs. Beverley B. Sawaya as deputy Environmental Conservation commissioner. With her at ceremony are John Ghezzi (L) acting secretary of state, and her son, John.

Reckless Spending Is Topic

Candidates Exchange Charges

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — With just four weeks from today until the Nov. 5 election, Republican Gov. Malcolm Wilson and Democratic hopeful Hugh L. Carey have zeroed in on each other's ability to guard the public pocket.

The two gubernatorial candidates were upstate Monday, trading charges about reckless spending. Both appeared before a meeting of the Associated Press editors and managing editors, Carey in the morning and Wilson in the evening.

During a question session with the editors, Wilson said he regreted saying that State Sen. Mary Anne Krupsak, the Democratic lieutenant gubernatorial nominee, was "soft on crime." The governor said he did not intend to "draw a conclusion" but merely wanted to point out that Ms. Krupsak had voted against bills to restore the death penalty and strictly define pornography.

The major points scored by both, however, concerned money matters, with Wilson labeling Carey a "big spending liberal Democrat" responsible for inflation through his votes as a seven-term Brooklyn congressman.

On his part, Carey was caustic in describing Wilson and former Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, saying they built an "overweight, overpriced state bureaucracy" during the 16 years the GOP has controlled the governor's office.

Wilson repeated his stand on taxes before the editors, saying that although he planned no new levies "it would be irresponsible" to flatly rule out any increases.

Earlier, during a taping of "Capitol Viewpoints" for airing on statewide educational television later this week, Wilson charged that by consistently voting for deficit spending, which totaled $331 billion, Carey had fueled the fires on inflation.

He also accused the Democratic nominee of spending a "half million dollars more than the law permits" on his primary campaign election. Carey forces have said the spending was permissible because the state's new election law did not take effect until June 1 and some of Carey's funds were used prior to that date.

Carey continued his upstate tour during the day, lashing at Wilson's record in stops in Plattsburgh and Troy.

He accused the Wilson administration of having "no respect for the budgets and the hopes of 18 million New Yorkers. They have ruled so long they do not understand what their waste and mismanagement has cost in human terms," he said.

Woman Named to High State Post

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Malcolm Wilson, acting swiftly to back up his call for more women in high state posts, has named Beverley B. Sawaya as deputy commissioner of the Environmental Conservation Department.

Mrs. Sawaya, a legislative aide to Republican Majority Assembly Whip Glenn H. Harris for the last three years, becomes one of the top women appointees in state government.

Only Ersa Poston, head of the State Civil Service Commission, has a higher status than Mrs. Sawaya, who will be paid $32,000 a year in her new job.

In a brief swearing-in ceremony Monday, Wilson said Mrs. Sawaya was "extremely qualified."

He said he was happy to make the appointment, both because it backed up his call for more women in high-level posts and because Mrs. Sawaya was able to do the job.

In accepting the post, Mrs. Sawaya said that she was hopeful that the appointment was made "not because I am a woman, but because I am qualified and will be able to provide guidance and leadership."

As deputy commissioner for intergovernmental relations, Mrs. Sawaya succeeds Dwight F. Metzler, who resigned recently to become director of health and environment for the state of Kansas.

Environmental Conservation Commissioner James L. Biggane said he was pleased with the appointment because Mrs. Sawaya "along with countless other women, was done much to heighten public awarness" of conservation programs.

Mrs. Sawaya served as executive director of the joint legislative committee on Environmental Conservation from April, 1971, until June, 1973, when she was named director of state and local relations for the Assembly.

During the 1974 session she directed the Assembly gasoline task force in dealing with the "energy crisis."

A native of Minneapolis, Mrs. Sawaya has lived in New York State since 1958. Before joining the legislative staff she was administrative officer of the Hudson River Valley Commission.

She lives in the Albany suburb of Delmar. Her son, John, is a student at Clarkson College of Technology in Potsdam.

'Victim' Charged With Murder

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Deborah Kantaeng was lying when she said she killed a man because he had raped her, police said Monday.

The dead man's alleged partner in the rape was released from custody as "an innocent party" who was not at the scene of the purported crime.

A lawyer for Miss Kantaeng, 19, a trim, 5-foot-2 brunette, said she is suffering from "epileptic amnesia" due to a brain concussion received in an auto accident three weeks ago.

Miss Kantaeng was to be arraigned today on a murder charge brought Monday by the district attorney's office, accusing her of murdering Danny Allen, 21, last Thursday.

She at first told police that Allen and a partner kidnaped her as she was leaving her job last Wednesday, drove her to a park in Santa Ana and raped her repeatedly at knifepoint.

She said she had to give the rapists her home telephone number and promise not to go to police in return for being released unharmed.

Allen called the next day and said he was coming to her home, she said.

As Allen walked through the door, he was shot in the throat at point blank range with a .410 shotgun.

With him was Carl Tice, 21, who fled. He later telephoned police, surrendered and was held on suspicion of murder.

"Tice is not the person who was present when the alleged rape occurred," a spokesman for the district attorney's office said on his release. "He was an innocent party who appeared on the day of the homicide."

"We feel positive the girl was not forcibly taken to the park in Santa Ana. We feel pretty sure she was not raped," said Sgt. J.J. Hurlbirt chief of homocide detectives.

She "lied about the kidnaping and lied on other issues," police spokesman Bob Aughton said. "It would appear she went willingly," the district attorneys spokesman said.

Her lawyer, David Fishman, said Miss Kantaeng "suffered a brain concussion three weeks ago in an auto accident. She is suffering from epileptic amnesia" and does not always remember things accurately at times.

Final Offer to Guerrillas

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — The Dominican government stood firm today, issuing a "final and definitive" offer to leftist guerrillas holding a U.S. woman diplomat and six other hostages in the Venezuelan Consulate.

In a nationwide television address, President Joaquin Balaguer said Monday night his government would let the leftists leave the Dominican Republic in exchange for the hostages.

Balaquer said however, the Dominican government would not free a single political prisoner or pay any ransom demands.

The president offered to let U.S., Spanish and Venezuelan diplomats in Santo Domingo oversee the guerrilla departures "as an added guarantee."

After the speech, troops and sharpshooters surrounding the consulate were reinforced and police blocked off streets in a three-block radius around the building.

There was no immediate reaction from the guerrillas, who originally demanded a $1 million ransom and freedom for 37 political prisoners.

Last Thursday, guerrilla chief Radames Mendez Vargas reduced his demands to freedom for "a number of political prisoners" to be negotiated and safe departures to Peru or Mexico for all.

Six guerrillas from the pro-Castro Jan. 12 Liberation Movement kidnaped U.S. Embassy public affairs officer Barbara Hutchison Sept. 27 and drove her to the consulate.

Armed with machine guns and grenades, the guerrillas captured the building and seized six other persons, including the Venezuelan consul and a Spanish priest.

Kissinger Expects Progress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger expects progress but no final agreements to result from his newest Middle East mission in search of peace and lower oil prices.

"I am not going with any fixed ideas," Kissinger told a news conference, despite published reports he has an elaborate plan to present to Arab and Israeli leaders.

"I would like to point out that there will be no concrete results in terms of agreements or dramatic announcements that can be expected out of this trip," Kissinger said. "The primary purpose is to give concreteness to the negotiating process, and perhaps to agree on some timing."

He said he would not meet with Yasser Arafat, a Palestinian leader who reportedly has extended his visit to Cairo so it will overlap with Kissinger's.

Kissinger indirectly has linked the issues of oil and Middle East peace talks by expanding his itinerary to include oil-rich Saudi Arabia as well as Algeria and Morocco. He originally planned visits to Egypt, Syria, Jordan and Israel.

But he insisted that the oil and peace issues are being negotiated separately. "The major dynamics of the impact of the high oil prices is not inevitably linked to the Arab-Israeli negotiations," he said.

"We are negotiating these two issues separately because the high oil prices affect many nations on a global basis that do not have the remotest connection with the Arab-Israeli conflict."

"We believe that to some extent, these negotiations should be conducted in separate forums, and we are conducting them in separate forums," Kissinger said.

Kissinger also said "there is no possibility I will see Arafat or any other Palestinian leaders while I am in the Middle East."

Arab leaders told former President Nixon earlier this summer that a solution to the Palestinian problem — where to relocate Palestinians who lost their homes when the state of Israel was created — was the only key to a lasting peace in the Middle East.

Kissinger was asked why he and President Ford recently used harsh terms in attacking high oil prices.

"We have stated, and I repeat, that present oil prices are putting a strain on the world economy that will, over a period of time, create an intolerable situation," he said. "It was the intention to emphasize these points."

Kissinger stressed the need for greater unity among oil consumers, protection against energy emergencies, conservation, cooperation on alternative sources of energy and greater financial solidarity.

In a lighter moment, Kissinger was asked if the recent criticism of him on a variety of issues was fair.

"Well," he said, "I think it is fair to say that my own estimate of myself may be at variance with that of some of the critics. But then I can't expect my critics to be right 100 per cent of the time.

Two More Days

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's second "Campaign '74" entered the final two days of handshaking today with politicians aiming appeals at a large 20 per cent of the electorate still unsure of its vote in this week's national election.

Political commentators agreed the two-week campaign has been one of the quietest ever, centering on inflation, the threat of mass unemployment and Britain's membership in the Common Market.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party led in all opinion polls by margins ranging from one to nine per cent, but political analysts said the 20 per cent undecided vote could be crucial in deciding Thursday's winner.

The election marks the first time this century that Britons have voted in national elections twice in one year.

Wilson ordered the balloting in a bid to break out of a parliamentary deadlock resulting from the Feb. 28 elections, which toppled the Conservatives but failed to give any party an overall majority in Parliament.

Since then, Wilson has run the country as the head of a minority Labor government, liable to frequent defeats when the Conservative and Liberal parties joined forces against him.

Conservative opposition leader Edward Heath stepped up demands Monday for a "government of national unity" after the election, but said only a Conservative win could bring it about.

"The British people want their leaders to put aside divisive policies and to work together," Heath said in a campaign speech Monday night.

Liberal party leader Jeremy Thorpe remained noncommital, saying, "There are sufficient people of like mind in this country to end the policies of division and to bring it back to a policy of reconciliation."

A heckler threw an egg at Wilson Monday night at Oxford. It missed him and splattered a policeman, but Wilson shrugged the incident off.

"In the 1970 election I evaded 28 eggs," he said. "There were none in the previous election last February. The lesson I must draw from this is that only under a Labor government can people afford to throw eggs."

Ford Breaks Tradition

President Ford's response to a House subcommittee, saying that he will appear in person should confirm his promise of cooperation with the legislative branch of government and should also clear the air about the pardon given to former President Nixon.

The President's appearance before Rep. William Hungate's subcommittee on criminal justice concerning the background of his pardon of Mr. Nixon is a break with tradition, but could be important to easing the enormous impact that the pardon has had on the American public.

Mr. Ford will be the first sitting president to appear before a congressional committee since Washington and Lincoln.

Mr. Lincoln's unrequested appearance before a subcommittee looking into rumored Southern espionage by his wife had a positive effect. Lincoln said: "I know of my own knowledge, know that it is untrue that any of my family hold treasonable communication with the enemy." The Committee was convinced. President Ford may have the same effect when he appears.

President Washington, on the other hand, was raked over the coals by Congress and vowed never to go back.

Mr. Ford's appearance, now due next week, is important because it will get the facts out in the open. And even though the questions posed by the House committee are not outwardly friendly they are questions that must be asked and that must be answered.

The 14 questions prepared by Judiciary subcommittee members Bella Abzug (D-N.Y.) and John Conyers (D-Mich.) center on when negotiations for the pardon began, who participated in the discussions, whether any promises or conditions were made and whether President Ford had any medical or psychiatric reports on Mr. Nixon when he granted him the pardon.

These questions must be answered with candor so that the public may determine the degree to which mercy was tempered with justice.

World Food Problem

President Ford did not promise the 137 other United Nations to solve the world's food problem but he did say the United States will take some helpful steps to do more than we have been doing.

These are to increase technical aid to agriculture in the hungry countries, to help establish a world food bank and to ship more U. S. food abroad.

The President was wise to keep away from high-flying oratory on the subject which has evoked more promises than performance in the past.

The truth is that a larger number of the world's people than ever before are now on the brink of famine. The reason is that there are millions more of them than ever before. It is clear that the population is increasing rapidly in the poor countries, and that the world's hunger is certain to get worse before it gets any better.

The situation is grave. We must face it and we should admit that we don't really know what to do about it.

The failures of the past and the fact that our generosity has made possible a population increase that has only made the problem worse have prompted biologist Garrett Hardin to warn that our own survival—like that of people in a crowded lifeboat—depends upon keeping the poor of the world, who are swimming all around the lifeboat, from climbing in and swamping it.

The harsh ethics of a lifeboat may eventually be forced upon us by the high birth rate in the hungry nations. But in the meantime we cannot turn away from the starving and refuse to help.

The steps President Ford suggests must be taken although our experience teaches they will only aggravate the ultimate catastrophe. Because, as in the case with the lifeboat, it would be difficult if not impossible to give swimming lessons to those people trying to climb into the overcrowded craft.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

How the Oil Cats Got Fat

WASHINGTON — A confidential congressional study blames the Nixon administration for permitting the oil companies to gouge almost $9 billion out of motorists and other consumers in the last year.

Four dubious and perhaps illegal White House decisions were responsible for the $9 billion loss, according to a study ordered by consumer watchdog Rep. John Moss, D-Calif. In addition, the report reveals that Congress itself directly caused a $2.6 billion ripoff.

These five pro-industry edicts not only gobbled up the consumers' pocket money at the pump, but they also served to boost inflationary pressure and allowed the major oil companies to increase their profits by an average of 71 per cent, right in the middle of the oil crisis.

Here are the five rapacious rulings as detailed in the Library of Congress Economics Division study prepared for Moss, chairman of the House Commerce and finance subcommittee:

— The Cost of Living Council allowed the oil companies to increase "old oil" from existing wells from $4.25 to $5.25 even though "this is oil that cost, roughly, less than $1 to produce." The consumer was stuck with $1.9 billion in excess oil bills. The Administration had claimed the Treasury Dept. had documents to justify the increase. But now, Treasury Secretary William Simon has privately conceded to Moss that no "treasury or Federal Energy Office papers were presented" at the Cost of Living meeting where the decision was made.

— Originally, the Cost of Living Council froze oil prices at $4.25 per barrel in 1972, a price some 30 per cent higher than previous levels. Then, in August 1973, the council freed prices on newly discovered oil to encourage exploration. This allowed the price to zoom to $10.50 a barrel even though costs to the oil firms were seldom more than $2 per barrel. The consumer costs: $3.25 billion.

— For every barrel of new oil produced, the council let Big Oil take the price lid off one barrel of old oil. This was also designed to encourage exploration. This questionable boondoggle cost consumers $2.23 billion.

— The Federal Energy Office let retailers raise their profit margin from 7.25 cents per gallon to 11 cents per gallon because of gasoline shortages. But now the pumps are full and the motorists' wallets are still being tapped by the high margins. The cost to oil and gasoline users: $2.89 billion.

— Congress is to blame, the Moss study notes, for exempting oil wells producing less than 10 barrels a day from price controls. While this may have kept some marginal wells in production, it cost the consumers $2.64 billion.

The Moss report concludes by noting a "ripple effect" caused when oil prices "have dragged coal and intrastate natural gas prices up with them."

Since everything from peanuts to power plants are produced or fueled by oil, coal or natural gas, this has meant that every price rise can, in part, be tied to the oil price hikes. The cozened consumer, therefore, has been tapped twice: Once with the $11.5 billion loss and once with the higher general prices this rise has brought on.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: Inside informants tell us the Central Intelligence Agency tipped off the Shah of Iran in August that five of his senior officers, including Gen Kiumarc Saleh, were plotting to overthrow him. All five were immediately jailed for "misuse of power." It may be merely a coincidence that the U.S. ambassador to Iran, Richard Helms, was a former CIA director. The CIA would not comment on the charge . . . Government lawyers, digging through the small print in the Foreign Assistance Act, have found legal justification for ex-President Nixon's gift of a military helicopter last summer to Egypt's President Anwar Sadat. At the request of Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., government auditors had questioned Nixon's authority to give away the helicopter. But, the lawyers have now authorized the Agency for International Development to pay the $3 million bill which also covers spare parts and labor. They cited a provision which authorizes grants "essential to the national interest" . . . The White House mail is running heavily against President Ford's decision to grant "conditional amnesty" to Vietnam war resisters. Nevertheless, he has passed the word to subordinates that he wants the amnesty board to take it easy on the young men who want to return to their country. He wants them to be given the benefit of any doubts.

ILLEGAL MAILING: Rep. John Wydler, R-N.Y., has just mailed 120,000 newsletters to his Long Island constituents at a cost to the taxpayers of $12,000 postage.

The newsletter violated three regulations for free mailings. First, it contained a photograph of a member of Wydler's family. Second, three of the four pages featured campaign-style pictures which took up more than 20 per cent of each page. And, third, a masthead photo of the congressman is larger than the rules permit.

Wydler said he had been advised it was permissible to use the picture of his son and that he was in "substantial compliance" with the photo guidelines. He conceded that the masthead photo was too large.

In contrast to Wydler, Rep. Don Young, R-Alaska, burned 105,000 of his newsletters because they did not comply with the same free mailing regulations.

Sixty mailbags were already on their way to the airport when an aide learned the pictures in the newsletter took up too much space. Young immediately had the mailbags intercepted and the newsletters destroyed.

"He didn't like losing the $1,500 printing cost," an aide told us, "but he knew he had to comply with the law."

Cuba Tomorrow

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY Jr.

One is greatly moved by the Cuban Americans who see it coming, and are heartsick at the prospec of it. They have much to learn from Yugoslav Americans, and Polish Americans, and Czechoslovak Americans whose gestures are reudced to an annual parade, and who are not even conspicuous in the ranks of those who demand a policy of firmness towards the Soviet Union.

It is almost certain now that it is only a matter of time before rleations between the United States and Cuba are "normalized." Normalized is here defined as: we will desist from doing anything at all that is inconvenient to Cuba, and Cuba will continue to do exactly as Cuba desires to do with respect to us, and other countries in the hemisphere.

To be sure, she may promise to stop "exporting" her revolution. There are those who will remember that Maxim Litvinov promised to stop doing that, extending his hand on it to the country squire in the White House. The notion that the Soviet Union would actually disestablish its Comintern because Litvinov promised Roosevelt that it would, is the kind of thing one recounts as a joke at Leninist bars, after the third vodka. The most intensive activities of the Comintern followed the Litvinov past and included the liquidation of Trotsky.

It is true that the Communists are influenced by reality, and the stock of Cuban Communism is riding pretty low in Latin America. After 15 years of Cuban Communism, sugar is rationed. It reminds one of the hard observation about what would happen if the Communists took over the Sahara Desert. Answer: Nothing — for 50 years. Then there would be a shortage of sand.

There is a shortage of everything in Cuba except bombast. Particularly there is a shortage of human freedom. The emigration from Cuba matches that from any country in the history of the century. And it is these men and women, who were promised by President Kennedy at a blubbery session in Miami in 1963 that one day their country would be free again, who feel now the anticipatory pain, the needle of the diplomatic punctilio that will officially shatter their dreams.

But one does wonder whether there is anyone in the Ford Administration working on a quid pro quo? For instance:

1. There are thousands upon thousands of Cubans who are now United States citizens, who would like to visit their relatives in Cuba. These are Americans by law. But in many cases, the Cuban government, through a variety of representatives, has said that it does not recognize their foreign citizenship. That they are guilty of crimes against Cuba, and subject to arrest if they come in to Cuba.

Here, surely, the United States should be unbending. If we have relations with Cuba of a normal kind, we cannot expect that Cuba would entertain firebrand revolutionaries going over there with the dark purpose of introducing a little freedom into Cuba. But we should instist on de-jure recognition of the fact of U.S. citizenship if granted to a former Cuban national.

2. The investments in Cuba of American individuals and American companies are substantially lost, written off. But a gesture is in order. Such a gesture might be devised from a special sugar price, calculated to return to these companies at least a part of the value of their confiscated investments.

3. There is no reason, at a moment when we are withholding Most Favored Nation privileges from the Soviet Union because of its restrictions in migration, to fail to insist on symmetrical concessions by Castro Cuba. It is, as things stand, a capital offense to attempt to flee Cuba without a special license.

Whether we won our point or not, surely a dramatization of it at the bargaining table will on the one hand put pressure on Castro, and on the other, bring a sense of purpose and relief, to the Cuban Americans whose interests we have so neglectfully watched over during our long retreat from the Monroe Doctrine.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Debased Currency Is the Cause

WASHINGTON — Had they set out to prove one of the central theses of Marxism, Mr. Ford and his fellow politicians of both parties couldn't have done it neater. After growling about "exorbitant prices" in oil, Mr. Ford then said (in a quote which may yet find its place in the Museum of Imperialism) that, "Throughout history, nations have gone to war over natural advantages such as water or food or convenient passages on land or sea."

If the President of the United States says things like that, the Marxists need not tell us that our system is built on forcing foreigners to sell their raw materials to us at low prices and to buy our manufactured goods at high ones. In addition, Dr. Kissinger warned the UN in basso tones about "decisions to restrict production and maintain an artificial price level." And there is Sen. Scoop Jackson in the Congress, simplifying it yet further by calling the prices foreign oil producers charge "tribute."

By any known definition of capitalism, there is no such thing, of course, as an exorbitant or an unfair or an unjust price. Any price and every price, high or low, is a just price, if a willing seller will take it and a willing buyer will give it. Thus, in reality, Mr. Ford, who is dead set against price control in America, wants to impose it on Arabia.

But President Ford's flinging the American fleet up the River Mecca to rid the world of unfair oil prices will have the most negligible effect on the cost of grub at the checkout counter. Inflation must rage on as before, because rising prices doesn't cause inflation. The prices are a result of inflation. The inflation of what? Either the money supply or the credit supply, which are the same thing.

Prices and wages go up because more dollars have been printed and therefore they are worth less. Without inflation, the rise in the price of anything means that people will either buy less of it or less of something else. Thus rising the price of oil can cause much hardship and many dislocations, but it can't cause inflation. That's something we do to ourselves.

Neither Mr. Ford nor Dr. Kissinger has ever claimed to have made a study of economics, but there are people around them who have. No school of economic analysis believes that raising the price of a commodity, not even such an important one as oil, can by itself be inflationary. If a country debases the value of its money — prints more of it to pay the price — that's a different matter.

Then why is Mr. Ford saying that "exorbitant prices run the risk of a worldwide depression and threaten the breakdown of world order and safety?" Can all of that happen just because the Arabs and Iranians now have large amounts of money either to bank or invest? Hardly. Then what are they afraid of? It would seem the basis of the fear is that oil producers' wanting to sell for cash instead of credit may precipitate a collapse of an overblown, horrendously unstable international banking structure. Depending on who you talk to, there is anywhere from $75 billion to $200 billion floating offshore in a daisy chain of IOUs. The opinion is that many of the borrowers are insolvent, and that the demands of the oil-producing countries for payment are going to force creditors to start calling in their loans.

With the President talking about "worldwide depression" and "ultimate bankruptcy," we might do well to take a look at the built-in protections" which most of us have been told will prevent another 1929-39. None of these that apply to the stock market — the margin requirements, the Securities and Exchange Commission, broker insurance —has prevented a crash.

What about unemployment compensation, welfare and Social Security? In addition to helping individuals, these programs were made to keep purchasing power up, thereby guaranteeing a certain level below which business couldn't slump. At the time, it was probably considered impossible to have this kind of recession and inflation at the same time, but we do, and there is ample evidence to argue that the recesssion is actually caused by the inflation. If that is the case, the famous "built-in protections," which are deliberately designed to be inflationary, may make matters worse.

Since we've never been in a situation like this before, the past is a misleading guide, as are those fright nostalgia pieces coming out on the Depression. We may have a new kind of Depression, where the prices never drop and where the character of the unemployment is totally different from 45 years ago.

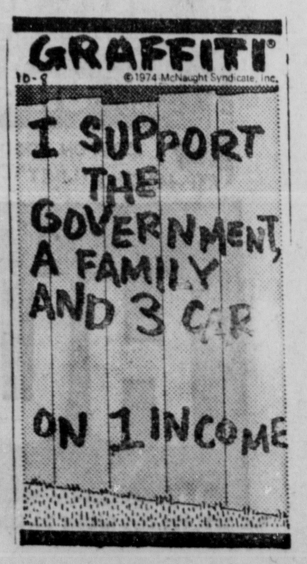

With a lot of luck, it'll turn out that the President and everybody else who's sounding alarmed and alarmist are mistaken. But in any case, wild swings at Arabs and Venezuelans and Indonesians are the kind of misleading diversions that will compound confusion later on.

Kingston Town Budget 'Up'

By CARL GRAHAM

SAWKILL

The Kingston Town Board has come up with a tentative $88,997 budget for 1975.

The budget is up from 1974's figure of $81,331, and if adopted in its present form would mean a tax rate of $35.05 per thousand of assessed valuation, an increase of 97 cents per thousand over the current figure.

A breakdown of categories in the proposed budget (with 1974 figures in parenthesis) shows appropriations for general fund at $31,217 ($25,332), highway fund $31,780 (unchanged), and federal revenue sharing $6,800 ($7,550). Appropriation for the Sawkill fire district is $17,500 ($14,950), and for the Stony Hollow fire district $800 (unchanged).

Estimated revenues for 1975 are $19,401, up from the current $16,431. An unexpended balance of $10,000 leaves $68,596 to be raised by taxes, up from this year's $60,301.

Supervisor Kenneth Whispell said that general inflation was the cause of the increase, noting that insurance, social services, materials, and numerous other items had increased in cost.

Whispell set a public hearing on the budget for 8 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 7 in the Town Hall. A copy of the proposed budget is available at Town Clerk Edward "Wes" Seche's office for inspection until then.

Whispell said he had been contacted by the Route 28 Businessmen's Association about the possibility of a 45 miles an hour speed limit along Route 28 from the Kingston City line westward to the western Town of Kingston boundary Councilman Robert Ferrigan said he doubted that the state would consider such a limit since it plans to build a divided highway westward to Route 375 in West Hurley. Whispell said he would ask the Department of Transportation to conduct a survey along the road to determine the feasibility of a speed limit.

Whispell said that the quarrying and mining ordinance discussed at the board's September meeting had raised several legal questions. He said that the town attorney had submitted the questions to the State Attorney General's office for opinions and that when answers have been received he will call a public hearing to discuss the proposed ordinance.

Councilman Dominick Petramele, chairman of the Recreation Committee, reported that about 110 children had attended the recent field day and that the event had been a great success.

The board voted to let the Girl Scouts use the town hall building for meetings on Sunday nights.

Two Cars for Ellenville

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE

The Ellenville Village Board awarded a bid for police cars at its meeting Monday night, and after strong recommendations from the village's manager and police chief, decided to buy two of them, not the single car some board members were leaning toward.

Awarded the bid was Lonstein Motors of Ellenville, which proposed to sell two 1975 Pontiac Catalinas for a total price of $8,565.04, with delivery in about 45 days. The bid was the third, and highest, of three proposals by Lonstein Motors, and exceeds the specifications the village set forth. A police car under the bid accepted would be "set up the way we feel it should be," according to the company's bid. Though the highest, by about $250, of the three proposals submitted by the company, it still was lower than the bids the village received from Bill Collier Chevrolet-Oldsmobile, of Ellenville, and a Monticello company.

The first motion on awarding the bid was by Trustee Sol Sandler and seconded by Trustee Stanley Kaplan. Sandler said he was in favor of buying only one car, and that was his motion. Both he and Kaplan cited inflation as a reason for limiting the purchase.

Village Manager Modris Pukulis said he disagreed "strongly" with that. He said he planned to have the village buy two cars every 18 months, about the time a village police car reaches 60,000 miles, keeping down repair costs.

Polic Chief William C. Trapnell said he needed a car. "I'm just not operating at peak efficiency without those wheels," he said.

"The only thing that has to be decided is what kind of service you want to give the village," said Trapnell.

Trustee Bernard Wainer said it cost so much to repair police cars with too many miles on them that it was cheaper to buy the two new cars. "We don't give anybody in this village anything but police service," he said.

Mayor Robert Dowling and Trustee David Krame, voted with Wainer to defeat the Sandler-Kaplan motion, and a subsequent motion to buy two cars passed 4-0, with Wainer abstaining.

In other action, it was announced that village cleanup "week" would be held Oct. 15-18. Village residents are asked to get all discarded items to curbside during the upcoming Columbus day weekend, for pickup by village crews. The only things the village crews will not pick up are garbage and large appliances. A separate leaf pickup will be scheduled shortly.

The village landfill will be closed, as will the village hall, Monday, Oct. 14, which is Columbus Day. The landfill will be open the following Tuesday.

Gordon Kent, head of the village's housing authority, has had troubles with his yard on Cape Avenue being damaged by Flood Control Work. He sent a letter to the board, dated Oct. 6, in which he said that if he did not get an answer to when the repairs on his yard would be made within 10 days, his attorney would be the next to contact the village. Pukulis was directed to investigage the matter at once.

Village hydrants will be flushed, preparatory to putting in anti-freeze for the winter, Oct. 22, 23, and 24, Pululis said.

UN Day will be Oct. 22, with a flag of the UN presented to the Ellenville schools Oct. 19.

Diabetes Discussed at AARP Session

NEW PALTZ

Mrs. Adelaide Williams of New York City, representing the New York Diabetes Association, was the featured speaker at Monday's meeting of Ulster County Chapter 975, American Association of Retired Persons.

Mrs. Williams described for the 75 persons in the audience the latest research into the causes and cures of diabetes, explaining that research is being done on laboratory animals to determine the feasibility of beta cell (insulin producing) transplants for diabetics, and also described research into artificial pancreas implants.

Members of the audience took a 10-question true or false quiz on diabetes and at the conclusion of Mrs. Williams' talk asked several questions about the disease, the leading cause of blindness in the country. Several persons asked why Ulster County Health Department does not conduct diabetes screening tests such as those in Dutchess and other neighboring counties and the chapter voted to write a letter to UCHD asking why this could not be done here.

Mrs. Elsie Lorenzo, chapter president, announced that the fund to buy new chairs for the host VFW post had reached $594.30, enough to buy 70 new chairs to replace those lost when the VFW building burned two years ago. An additional nine chairs will be purchased with the trading stamps donated by members, she said.

Mrs. Teresa Abbruzzie, chairman of the Legislative Committee, urged members to write federal legislators urging passage of Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's Medicare Reform Act of 1974 (S-3154 and HR-13,385).

Mrs. Lorenzo said that a defensive driving course has attracted 35 members and said that the program for the Nov. 4 meeting will be put on by Shop-Rite Stores, soon to come to the New Paltz area. The program will be a description of comparative shopping.

The chapter's third birthday will be celebrated with a dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston on Thursday, Oct. 24, beginning at 1 p.m. Len Cane, executive director of the Ulster County Chamber of Commerce, will be the featured speaker, and Dorothy Galani will furnish music for dancing.

The crafts group will meet in the VFW building on Oct. 14 and 28 and will meet on each second and fourth Monday of the month thereafter under the leadership of Miss Helen Miller.

Trips planned for future months include a trip to Radio City Music Hall on Nov. 19 to see "The Little Prince." Buses leave Simmons Plaza in New Paltz at 7:30 a.m.

On Dec. 2 charter buses will take members to Willowbrook Shopping Center in New Jersey. The Christmas party, arranged by chairman Teresa Abbruzzie, will be held at the Hedges Restaurant in Ulster Park on Dec. 16.

Grandma Pleads Guilty To $109,711 Caper

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Julia Mary Cofrancisco, for 40 years postmaster of the Washington County hamlet of Middle Falls, pleaded guilty in U. S. District Court Monday to misappropriating $109,711 in cash receipts between Feb. 1, 1971 and Aug. 17, 1974.

Mrs. Cofrancisco, 63 and a grandmother, also admitted filing a false statement with the Postal Data Center that there was $99,346.44 in the third class post office, which she operated in the neighborhood grocery store she runs with her husband. She held the postmastership from Aug. 1, 1934 until charges were filed against her.

Judge James T. Foley released Mrs. Cofrancisco in her own custody pending sentencing and ordered a presentence investigation. He also assigned her an attorney after she signed a statement that she was financially unable to retain counsel.

After a brief conference with the attorney, Mrs. Cofrancisco first pleaded innocent, but later they returned to the courtroom and she pleaded guilty to both charges.

Mrs. Cofrancisco, mother of two adult sons, was unable to provide her own transportation to Albany because of health reasons, and a postal inspector obligingly drove her to and from the Albany Post Office building, where she appeared before Foley.

Mrs. Cofrancisco said she and her husband have a grocery business but she could not give figures on its income. "We have taken a loss all the time," she said.

One Dead, One Critical In NYC Subway Tragedy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Passengers, who watched helplessly as a fast moving train squeezed two boys against a subway platform Monday, tilted a 50-ton car to free the youths. One victim, a 12-year-old boy, died today in surgery and his 8-year-old companion was in critical condition.

A second rush-hour train Monday narrowly missed a sister of one of the boys, but the girl turned back and was pulled to safety by a policeman.

The boy who died was Gerard Turner. The second youth was Jerome Williams.

Police said 40 passengers helped officers and transit workers move the car a few inches away from the platform so the youths could be pulled free.

"The cooperation was unbelievable," Nilsen said. "One man —he was wearing a suit and a camel-hair overcoat —he leaned over and helped pull the boys up. He saw that their legs were tangled together and he leaned over to reach them. Afterward his clothes were covered with blood, but he just disappeared without waiting for a thank you."

Police said Gerard, Jerome and four others, including Jerome's two sisters, Debbie, 9, and Sharon, 11, and two unidentified boys, got off a northbound train at the 135th street station and one of them said "let's cross the track and go back downtown."

All of the children except one of Jerome's sisters and an unidentified boy stepped down onto the tracks to cross toward the southbound platform.

One boy made it across safely. The girl turned back and was pulled from the tracks by an officer. But a train came into the station as Jerome and Gerard were trying to climb onto the platform, pinning the two between the train and the platform.

State Steps In At Matteawan

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The State Department of Mental Hygiene has taken over administration of a building at Matteawan State Hospital in Dutchess County for use as a separate facility to care for mentally ill patients deemed dangerous.

Gov. Malcolm Wilson said Monday expansion of the Mid-Hudson Psychiatric Center at New Hampton also will be undertaken to provide increased and improved accommodations for mentally ill adults.

The transfer of Building 21 at Matteawan will permit the state to fulfill a new law mandating that all criminal defendants found incompetent to stand trial be treated in mental hygiene facilities.

Previously, defendants found mentally incompetent were cared for at Matteawan under the auspices of the Department of Correctional Services.

Building 21 has space for 300 patients and is a "medium security" facility.

The Mental Hygiene Department also is required to take over care of patients at Matteawan and approximately 100 patients will be moved to Mid-Hudson in Orange County.

Mid-Hudson is "secure" Mental Hygiene facility with a staff of 300. About 100 more persons will be added to handle the increased caseload. The cost of structural changes to handle the inflow will be about $350,000, Wilson said.

Women Choose Careers

Is the Altar a Deadend?

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK—(NEA)—So you thought that wedding bells were in the back of every unmarried woman's mind, right?

Wrong. Case in point: Single working women with five-figure salaries.

So observes W. Scane Bowler, chairman and chief executive officer of a national financial services organization.

"A growing number of women are clearly reluctant to give up lucrative positions and a sense of independence," he said.

"The antithesis is true for men in similar financial positions. The moment they begin to achieve monetary stature they begin to hear wedding bells. And so starts the hunt for the legendary rose-covered cottage."

A recent study showed that male executives are far more marriage minded than their female counterparts.

Of 100 single women questioned, ages 35 to 44, all with substantial incomes, only 36 indicated any desire to marry in the near future. Queries of the same number of single men in similar age and salary brackets revealed that the opposite holds true — 87 were either already planning marriage or had hopes of marrying in the not-to-distant future.

Bowler added that these findings coincide with the national profile of men and women, aged 35 to 44 with annual incomes over $12,000. Fully 32 per cent of these wage earners are women whereas single men comprise only 4.3 per cent of the mix. "Evidently money and marriage for men go hand in hand," he said.

He further recommends that many of the women felt their careers were of prime importance. They feared marriage would rob them of a sense of freedom and conceivably even their jobs — not to mention their paychecks.

As one woman said, "A man would have to be quite affluent to provide me with the same amount of money I now earn each month."

Another opted for working as opposed to marriage because it gives me a sense of belonging, of involvement, of identifying with a busy world rather sitting at home reading about what is happening."

Bowler also sees a definite trend among such successful single women toward meaningful financial planning for future goals, including retirement. They are naturally much more concerned about such matters as insurance and investment than their stay-at-home sisters, he noted.

"For the most part the women enjoyed the relatively plush life style afforded by their substantial salaries and were cautious about placing it in jeopardy through marriage. Today the majority of women in the upper income brackets feel they literally cannot afford to get married," Bowler concluded.

W. Scane Bowler is chairman and chief executive officer of Pioneer Western Corporation whose principal subsidiaries are Western Reserve Life Assurance Co. and the Boston-based management company for the Pioneer group of mutual funds.

DEAR ABBY: Roy and I are engaged to be married. My problem is that he has gotten the same girl pregnant three times.

The first time it happened Roy didn't know me. The girl was in high school then, and she lost the baby, so Roy got off lucky.

The second time Roy was home from the Army on an emergency furlough. (His father had died and he came home for the funeral. Roy said he went to see this girl and she wanted to take his mind off his sorrow.) She had the baby, which Roy still supports.

Right after Roy gave me a ring, this girl turns up pregnant again. She claims it's Roy's. I think she was just trying to hook him. He tried to talk her into an abortion but she refused. She says abortion is murder, it's against her conscience, and besides it's a sin.

She is having the baby in November and I had planned to get married in December. Roy says if I will forgive him and marry him anyway, he will never look at another girl as long as he lives. Would you marry him?

IN LOVE WITH ROY

DEAR IN: No. He's accident prone, doesn't learn from experience, and seems to have a serious weakness he hasn't learned how to control.

DEAR ABBY: You referred to alimony as "the high cost of leaving."

That may be true, but I still think paying alimony is like buying oats for a dead horse.

STILL BUYING

DEAR STILL: Ex-wives are not dead horses. They are two-legged oat-burners and very much alive and kicking.

Though the cost of LEAVING may have seemed high at the time, the cost of LIVING has been climbing steadily, so before a man decides to leave his wife, he'd be wise to check the cost of oats, which these days ain't hay.

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from that husband who complained because his wife of 35 years was a "backseat driver."

He said she made him so nervous he didn't think he could tolerate a motor trip with her beside him as a co-pilot.

That lady reminded me of myself. For the duration of my marriage (52 years) I, too, was a backseat driver. I know it irked my good husband, but he seemed to understand.

One day he drove to a nearby shopping area and I wasn't in the car beside him to say: "Look out for that crazy woman coming toward us on the wrong side of the road!"

This is the end of my story. She killed him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MONEY TALKS" IN TULSA: Yes, it talks, but it doesn't always give us the right answers.

Here's what a brilliant man had to say about the subject:

"What availeth it if we become so engrossed in the pursuit of business or of money for its own sake, after we've earned a competency, if this pursuit unfits us for the enjoyment of the real, deep, satisfying things of life, if it blinds our eyes, warps our souls and numbs our better senses and sensibilities?

Stitching Time

Knit Zippy Hooded Sweater

By JUDY LOVE

You can't have too many sweaters this fall. Especially when they're the big, bulky, warm-up kind that's a super substitute for a jacket or coat.

We've got a casual cutie for you this time. It's a zip-front sweater parka, complete with hood that's toasty enough for those first frost-bitten days. We see it knitted up in home-team colors, cheering in the stands at a football field or ice-hockey rink.

The extra-roomy hood keeps long, loose hair under control and ears warm. The arms are worked in a constrasting color with a lively geometric deisgn knitted in. It's a different and fun project for allyou sweater collectors.

You'll work in a bulky yarn with a handspun appearance for warmth and body. Bernat's Krysta with its Scandinavian look is ideal. You'll need 10 two-ounce skeins of the main color and five of the contrasting color.

The design's easy to do with the chart which accompanies instructions. Start right now and you'll have a super sweater in time for the first ice hockey games.

Instructions are available for knitting the sweater for sizes small, medium and large. This range fits everyone from 8 to 18. For your copy of knitting directions, send 50 cents to Stitchin' Time, c-o The Daily Freeman, Radio City Station, Box 503, New York, New York 10019. Ask for leaflet No. 406 and be sure to enclose your name, address and zip code.

KNIT KNACKS

Dear Judy Love,

I've been knitting up several sweaters this fall in yarns with a "natural" texture. I wonder what yarn I should use to join the pieces neatly and smoothly. VT, Kansas City.

Dear VT,

The finishing yarn is very important if you want your sweaters to look "naturally" beautiful. You'll find it's best work with a worsted weight yarn when joining pieces of your sweaters. Be sure to select a yarn which is machine washable and dryable, if your sweaters are easy-care. Judy Love.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Sports fans can knit this hooded warm-up jacket and keep cozy in the stands. Patterned sleeves and bulky "natural" texture yarn add the Scandinavian touch.

Helpful Hints From Heloise

Dear Folks:

When you are frying chicken, did you know that if you will drop a few drops of yellow food coloring in the oil (before it's heated, or it will pop), that your chicken will absorb it and become a beautiful golden brown?

Looks like it's been fried in pure butter!

Dear Heloise:

While visiting friends, and getting dressed for a party, my husband discovered he had brought the wrong shirt . . . cuff links were needed, and he had none.

We didn't want to bother our host, so I thought to bring out my small travel jewel case which, among other things, carries several pairs of clip-on earrings.

We chose a color he liked, snapped them into the shirt, and presto! No problems.

Dear Heloise:

My sister-in-law sews vinyl purses, and gives me the scraps. The biggest pieces are used for knee patches on trousers for the kids . . .

Those knee patches wash and wear like you wouldn't believe, also, they're thicker and protect the knee.

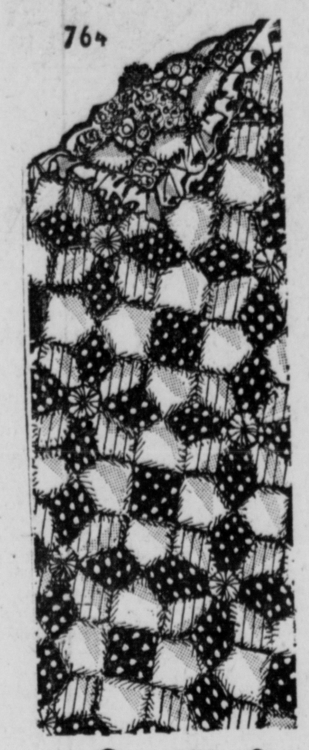

My son really likes them. All the other kids have to feel his shiny, vinyl knees!

Chamber Officials At Seminar

ALBANY

Len Cane, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of Ulster County, Elizabeth Skidmore of the Chamber, and Ethel Billups, the Chamber's On-the-Job Training Coordinator, represented Ulster County at the recent one-day On-the-Job Training Conference of the New York State Department of Labor at the Hyatt House in Albany.

Industrial Commissioner Louis L. Levine, head of the State Department of Labor, served as host for participants who have shown an interest in maintaining and expanding the various training programs carried out by the state. The Ulster County Chamber's program was singled out for praise as an "innovative and unique" effort in the manpower field.

Freeman Cited By Elks Club

KINGSTON

The Daily Freeman has been saluted for "its outstanding contributions to the life of the entire Mid-Hudson area" by Kingston Lodge 550, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

The announcement was made today by Robert E. Scutt, exalted ruler who told of the lodge's passing unanimously a resolution saluting the Freeman in keeping with the Elks anual observance of National Newspaper Week each year since 1949.

Scutt said that "all too often the large majority of people think of editors and reporters when the subject of newspapers comes up, but there are many people other than these key individuals who make up every news organization. Newsboys and girls, linotype operators, photographers, artists, computer technicians, secretaries and all other employes combine to make up what must be a close-knit team. They too merit recognition," Scutt said.

Joining in the salute was grand exalted ruler and national president, Gerald Strohm of Fresno, Calif. In his travels throughout the United States and its possessions, Strohm has constantly emphasized the importance of a free press to the American way of life.

"As a principal exponent and practioner of our constitutionally guaranteed right of freedom of the press, we must constantly remain vigilant for those who would stifle our right to know what is going on, particularly in all phases of our governmental bodies and departments," Strohm said.

Kingston Lodge 550 said it is joining with the other 2,190 lodges throughout the United States and possessions in its salute to National Newspaper Week, Oct. 6-12.

CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., TUESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 8, 1974 THIRTEEN

A Most Unusual Press Conference

By MATT SPIRENG

KINGSTON — Sheriff William B. Martin's second scheduled press conference in his current campaign for reelection turned out as a singularly strange event today, with only one member of the news media appearing to ask questions of the sheriff, who also failed to show up.

"The sheriff is very busy with many other appointments, and he couldn't be here today," said Martin's campaign chairman, A. Michael Schovel, by way of explanation of the candidate's absence.

Schovel, speaking in lieu of Martin, commented briefly, criticizing the Sheriff's Committee of the Ulster County Legislature for not cooperating with the incumbent, who has come under heavy criticism of late, and explaining that he expects Martin to have much to say at his next scheduled press conference on Tuesday, Oct. 15.

Schovel indicated that part of the reason the sheriff did not show up at the press conference is his scheduled appearance Thursday before the Ulster County Legislature to explain why his personal services account is projected to some $75,000 short by the end of the year.

"I definitely don't think there has been enough cooperation between the Sheriff's Committee and the sheriff," Schovel said.

"It is very seldom that he (Martin) has been called in (before the Sheriff's Committee) where he could discuss his problems," said Martin's campaign chairman.

Schovel made it clear that he feels the Sheriff's Committee and the Ulster County Legislature have made decisions on their own about which, instead, they should have consulted with the sheriff.

"I think he should be able to go to the Sheriff's Committee or they should be able to go to him," Schovel said.

Schovel said Martin will appear Thursday before the Ulster County Legislature to answer questions about the Sheriff's Department and jail financial situation.

The Financial Committee of the County Legislature asked Martin last week to appear on Thursday, warning in a letter that if he did not appear the legislature will be unable to act on Martin's request for additional funds "because of complete lack of documentation concerning the underlying causes of the budgetary problems."

The Sheriff's Committee of the legislature first revealed Martin's more than $75,000 deficit in his personal services account in early September following a meeting between Clifford Snyder (R-Dist. 1), chairman of that committee, and Undersheriff Jerome Schwartz.

Martin has said that the money shortage is due to additional expenses as the result of housing Rockland County prisoners at the Ulster County Jail. The Finance Committee has maintained that the Jail account has sufficient funds to cover jail expenses and that it is the personal services account deficit which needs explanation.

Schovel vowed today that if the sheriff receives cooperation and is reelected "he intends to update the entire department."

Schovel continued, "To do this it is going to take money. To get qualified people they will have to get higher wages than now."

According to Schovel, if cooperation and more money are forthcoming Martin "will be able to show a vast improvement" in his department.

Martin, in his first press conference held last Tuesday, vowed to run a "positive campaign" based on an "impeccable record known to all" during his previous eight years in office.

UCCC RECEIVES GRANT—Robert T. Brown (R) president of Ulster County Community College and Mrs. Jean Robertaccio, UCCC director of financial aids accept check for $2,000 from Herman Geisler of IBM, manager of administration, Kingston-Poughkeepsie. The grant is part of IBM's neighboring college program and will be used by UCCC to provide student aid to minority and disadvantaged students.

Accomplice Sought In 'Kidnap Case'

WOODLAND VALLEY — State police continued to seek a second man today in connection with the reported abduction of a 29-year-old woman from her residence in this western Ulster County community early Monday.

Lynn Marie Anderson, who was reported to have been dragged from her bed at gunpoint by two men at about 1 a.m. Monday was found unharmed Monday afternoon, police said.

Kenneth Summers, 32, of the Delaware County community of Fleischmanns was arrested at the time Miss Anderson was found and was charged with first degree burglary.

No explanation was immediately given as to why no kidnap charges were lodged against Summers.

Under state law, first degree burglary occurs when a person knowingly enters or remains in a dwelling at night with the intent to commit a crime, and when in the dwelling is armed with a deadly weapon or causes physical harm to any person not a participant in the crime.

Following arraignment Monday, Summers was confined in lieu of $20,000 bail in the Ulster County Jail.

An extensive search and investigation was launched early Monday after Miss Anderson was reported to have been kidnaped from a commune known as Rainbow Farms in a wooded area in the Town of Shandaken.

Miss Anderson's abductors were said to have carried a shotgun or a rifle when they dragged the woman from her bed and whisked her away in a car.

Summers and Miss Anderson were found in Fleischmanns, police said.

Summers was arraigned before Hurley Town Justice C. H. DuMond.

Police said 11 persons resided at the commune at which Miss Anderson lived.

SCORE's Robison . . . 'I'm Available'

KINGSTON — Ronald Robinson, president of Project SCORE and the subject of a city court ordered warrant befuddled as to the "real reasons" for the city's taking action to arrest him for building code violations and why they haven't picked him up yet.

"I'm not going anywhere," Robinson told the Freeman today from his place of employment in Rosendale. "I'm still here. I'm not hiding."

City Judge Hubert A. Richter signed a warrant for Robinson's arrest on Friday morning for violation of the city's multiple residency law, a misdemeanor. City police have been unsuccessful in serving the warrant to date, claiming Robinson was out of town over the weekend. "We've got over 1,000 warrants to serve," a police spokesman told the Freeman today when asked why Robinson, who is obviously still in the area, had not been arrested.

Robinson, contacted by telephone by the Freeman questioned why he was being "singled out" by the city. "As far as I know no one has ever been arrested for violations on an empty building," Robinson said. 'Why me?" he asked. "I find this very difficult to understand."

City officials contend that Robinson anf SCORE, which purchased its three buildings on West Strand from the city in May of last year, have had sufficient time to rehabilitate them.

The city served SCORE with a 14 (working) day ultimatum on Aug. 30 following complaints from an adjacent property owner. Time ran out on Sept. 20 but the city extended it two weeks before Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein, at the request of Building Inspector George E. Radcliffe, asked City Judge Hubert A. Richter to issue the warrant for Robinson's arrest last Friday.

Richter, in signing the warrant, ordered bail of $100 if and when Robinson is arrested. After that he will be formally arrainged.

Dolphins Are Trying Some Different Tactics

IN AND OUT—Jim Mandich of the Miami Dolphins goes high for a Bob Griese pass in first quarter of Monday night game with New York. Mandich dropped the pass, but Dolphins advanced on a penalty. Defending for the Jets are Burgess Owens (22) and Steve Tannen. (UPI).

MIAMI (UPI) — As Miami Dolphin Coach Don Shula put it,"Those were two pretty good No. 12's going after each other tonight."

Dolphin quarterback Bob Griese and the New York Jets' Joe Namath threw 62 times in Miami's 21-17 win Monday night, completing 34 for 489 yards and three touchdowns.

The win for Griese and the Dolphins came only with a big assist from speedy Hubert Ginn, a Baltimore Colt castoff who clinched the Miami win with a 41-yard burst for a touchdown with 8:59 left in the game.

Griese started the game by hitting nine straight passes and converting 13-of-19 third down plays. He wound up hitting 17-of-23 for 167 yards and a touchdown.

Griese admitted the Dolphins are throwing the ball more this year, displaying what amounts to a "new look" as opposed to a run-oriented offense in the past.

"You just can't do the same thing year after year and continue to win," he said "We're smart enough to know we can't win the same way this year that we did last year."

He also credited his wide receivers and offensive line for much of his success in the nationally televised game.

"You've got to give them credit," he said. "The receivers were getting open, I was getting good protection and we were just playing pitch and catch out there for a while."

Jets Coach Charlie Winner agreed.

"They couldn't have completed more passes if we hadn't had anybody out there on defense at all," he said. "The game was lost in the first half. We just didn't have any pass defense at all."

Although Namath hit 17-of-39 passes for 290 yards and two touchdowns, he said he was disappointed in his performance.

"We just couldn't make the big play," he said, ignoring his team record 89-yard scoring strike to tight end Rich Caster with six minutes to play that brought the final margin to 21-17.

Shula was more complimentary to the Jet passing attack.

"They had four wide receivers if you count Caster and five if you count (running back) John Riggins," he said. "Namath had five guys who could catch the football and he threw to every one of them."

Shula said he "feels better" after the win, which gave the Dolphins a 3-1 record. The Miami loss to New England in the opener and narrow escapes at Buffalo and San Diego had cast doubt whether the Dolphins could win a third straight Super Bowl.

"I feel we played more of the kind of football we're capable of," Shula said. "Of course, the important thing tonight was we made the big play and that run of Ginn's was the deciding touchdown."

Ginn last year had asked to be traded from the Dolphins because of inaction and was dealt to the Colts. But before the 1974 campaign got underway, the Colts cut him, he failed a one-day tryout with New England and Shula picked him up as a free agent.

Ginn played in place of regular back Mercury Morris, who is stil nursing a knee injury, but Shula said he did not hestitate to use him.

Miami roared to a 14-0 lead at the half. The Dolphins marched 80 yards on their first possession, with Griese lofting a two-yard scoring pass to a wide open Jim Mandich. Larry Csonka crashed over from the one for the second TD.

The Jets, with Namath opening up the offense more, came alive in the second half. The Jet quarterback threw a nine-yard TD pass to Riggins to cut the lead to 14-7 and then set up Bobby Howfield's 43-yard field goal to make it 14-10.

Ginn gave Miami a 21-10 lead and was still accepting congratulations when Namath, forced back to his own nine, found Caster deep downfield between three defenders and the speedy tight end outdistanced them to the goal line.

WFL Hoping Fresh Funds Will Save Troubled Clubs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Inflation is on the verge of sacking two World Football League franchises but the new professional football in town, though battered and slightly deflated, is still hoping an injection of fresh funds will fill it up again.

Sport is recognized as a business, business is recognized as far from booming and the WFL recognizes it must do something about two of its biggest liabilites — the Jacksonville Sharks and the Detroit Wheels.

WFL Commisssioner Gary Davidson, who pushed infant hockey and basketball leagues out into the world in less-troubled financial times, finds two of his football clubs on the brink of financial extermination today.

"Present ownership has been unable to meet financial obligations for several weeks and the league can no longer carry the team's operation and player contracts unless financial support comes forth in the two cities," Davidson said.

As a result, the WFL announced Monday that this week's games involving the Detroi Wheels and the Jacksonville Sharks have been postponed. Their scheduled opponents, the Florida Blazers and Chicago Fire, will square off Wednesday instead.

"That these two clubs are having financial difficulty at this time would come as no surprise to people in the business world," Davidson said. "As I said when we started last spring, economic conditions in the country would be important to our degree of success."

Now the league is looking for a couple of benefactors to bail out the two clubs that seem to be going down for the third time.

"We've had meetings for several days," WFL Vice President Don Andersen said. "We've met with potential investors. That's why the door is left open. There are potential investors for both clubs."

But Andersen warned that "new financing probably will have to be done in the next two or three days to keep the clubs operative this year."

The Jacksonville and Detroit franchises aren't the only ones risking a financial benching. The Florida Blazers were recently taken over by the league too but league officials say they're not in the same boat with the Sharks and Wheels yet.

"They're the most recent ones to come under the league," Andersen said. "The other two have had obligatiins built up over several weeks. The Blazers just last week came under WFL operation."

Andersen said the cost of operating the teams is about $500,000 each for the balance of the season. There are six scheduled games left for each of the 12 clubs in the first-year league.

Alston Won't Look Ahead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "If you save somebody for the World Series, you may not get there," said Manager Walter Alston before his Los Angeles Dodgers took on the Pittsburgh Pirates today in the third game of their National League championship series.

So even though the Dodgers were playing before 56,000 in their home stadium and holding a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series, Alston wouldn't look ahead.

"You worry about the World Series when you get there," said the dean of managers, who has piloted world championship Dodger teams in 1955, 1959, 1963 and 1965.

His opposing skipper, Danny Murtaugh of the Pirates, who was to celebrate his 57th birthday at the playoff game, readily admitted his team had its backs to the wall on arrival in Los Angeles.

The Pirates had lost 3-0 and 5-2 in their home park.

"There's no tomorrow for us if we don't win today," he said in relating the obvious. "I made my decision to go with Bruce Kison pitching because he has thrown well for us down the stretch."

Murtaugh chose a right-handed hitting lineup with Bob Robertson and Richie Zisk starting at first base and the outfield respectively.

Alston changed his lineup to insert Willie Crawford, a left-handed hitter, in right field and Joe Ferguson catching.

Kison, a 6-foot-4 right-hander, termed the game, "The most important I've ever started."

His southpaw pitching opponent, Doug Rau, felt the same.

Both are youngsters, although the 24-year-old Kison gained acclaim in 1971 when he pitched 6 1-3 innings in relief against Baltimore in the fourth World Series game, which squared the battle that the Pirates went on to win in seven games.

Kison was 9-8 during the regular season and Rau 13-11. Each was hampered by a blister on the middle finger of his throwing hand at one point in the season. Both say there's no problem now.

This Game No. 3 of the championship series was announced as a sellout on Monday guaranteeing a crowd of 56,000.

One big surprise was a rain storm on Monday which limited the teams' workouts. Since coming West from Brooklyn in 1958, the Dodgers have had only one regular season game postponed by rain — in 1967.

Catcher Manny Sanguillen and outfielder Willie Stargell paced the Pirate hitters through the first two NL playoff games, with averages of .375 and .429 respectively.

But the overall Pittsburgh batting average was only .188.

On the other hand, the Dodgers were hitting .288 as a team with Ron Cey at .500 — including four hits Sunday — Steve Garvey and Bill Russell at .333, and Bill Buckner at .300.

RAIN IN LA? — Dodger manager Walt Alston holds an umbrella as the Dodgers take the field Monday for a rain-shortened workout. The weatherman was predicting a 40 per cent chance of rain for today's third game of the National League playoffs, but Alston wasn't worried. The Dodgers have been rained out only once in 16 years since coming to Los Angeles and that was in April of 1967. (UPI).

BUS STOP — Oakland's Reggie Jackson peers out of bus door prior to trip to downtown Baltimore after arrival at Friendship Airport Monday. The A's met the Baltimore Orioles this afternoon in Game Three of the American League playoffs. The two teams split the first pair of games over the weekend in Oakland. Jim Palmer met Vida Blue in today's game. (UPI)).

Split Pleased A's, Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore sent right-hander Jim Palmer against Oakland lefty Vida Blue in the pivotal third game of baseball's American League Championship Playoffs, with both clubs seemingly satisfied by the split of the first two games.

The duel for the pennant now comes down to a three-game series in Baltimore after the Orioles won the opening game in Oakland and the A's bounced back to balance it Sunday.

"We're pretty evenly matched," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, after about a dozen of his Birds went through a voluntary light workout Monday.

The A's arrived in town Monday night, and Manager Al Dark agreed with Weavers' prognosis.

"There's no way to size this series up," said Dark. "They're two even ball clubs. The one that gets the best pitching and the breaks will win."

That added up to four unearned runs for Oakland and left Weaver talking to himself.

Today's opposing pitchers have been here before. Palmer and Blue tangled twice in the 1973 playoffs with Baltimore winning both games. In the opener of that series, Palmer shut out Oakland while Blue was kayoed in the first inning. In Game 4, it was Palmer's turn for an early shower, but the Orioles overcame a 4-0 deficit to beat Blue again.

That series was won by Oakland in five games and this one has had the same pattern the two teams followed in 1973, with Baltimore winning the first game and the A's taking No. 2. There is, however, one important difference. In 1973 the teams moved West to play the final three games in Oakland. This year they came East. The Orioles think that's important.

"I'm just glad to be home," said third baseman Brooks Robinson.

Today's pitching matchups offered a study in contrasts.

Blue was a workhorse for the As', compiling a 17-15 record and hurling 282⅓ innings second on the club only to Hunter.

Palmer spent 54 days on the disabled list because of an inflamed nerve in his elbow and struggled to a mediocre 7-12 record. He was 4-4 after returning to the Orioles rotation in August. And doubt lingers over his condition.

Fight Fans Scuffle At Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Unhappy partisans in a crowd of 2,402 at Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum littered the boxing ring with glass and chairs. Then a 40-minute pushing-and-shoving scuffle broke out.

"This kind of thing can't help boxing," said former heavyweight champ Floyd Patterson, a cable TV commentator for the Forum's actual main event—a victory by Fausto Rodriguez over Harold Weston, Jr.

Nobody was reported injured in the melee, which erupted after welterweight Justice Ortiz of Puerto Rico gained a split six-round decision against Guelo Hernandez of the Dominican Republic.

"It really surprised me," said Patterson about the disturbance, which trapped the ex-boxer along with other ringsiders in the scuffling. "But I don't know what you can do about it."

Garden spokesman John Condon said he would protest to the New York State Athletic Commission about the decisions of Judges Frank DiGeso and Joe Pushkal, who named Ortiz the winner of the preliminary bout.

"It was a lousy decision," said Condon. "The other guy should have won the fight. The referee (Wallace Ortiz) had it right."

The angry Dominican rooters were all smiles later when welterweight contender Rodriguez of Santo Domingo knocked down Weston of New York just before the final bell to grab a 10-round split decision.

His right eye bleeding from a flurry of stinging left hooks, Rodriguez threw a right cross, a left hook and another right to down Weston, who was up at the count of three when the fight ended.

Weston, his left eye badly swollen from a hard right hand in the opening round, had taken command until the sudden knockdown.

It was the 29th victory against just one loss for Rodriguez, a hard puncher with 23 knock outs and a hypnotic, upright stance.

After the loss in his first bout since ending a two-year U.S. Army stint, Weston has 16 career wins against five losses and one draw.

Before the fight, Rodriguez weighed in at 147¾ and Weston 149½.

Wilkens A Player Again

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Cavaliers Monday sold the Portland Trail Blazers the playing rights to their coach, Lenny Wilkens, saying the club did not want to stand in the way of the 14-year veteran.

Wilkens, 36, was named as Portland's coach earlier this year after playing two seasons with the Cavaliers. The Cavs had retained the rights to his services as an active player.

"We have given Lenny an opportunity to make himself a better coach with the addition of a great player and that makes the Trail Blazers a legitimate contender for season honors in the NBA," said Bill Fitch, general manager and coach of the Cleveland Cavaliers.

"The possibility of Lenny playing another year should be a shot in the arm for the league, since we have already lost two great players in Jerry West and Wilt Chamberlain."

Fitch did not disclose details of the agreement that turned over the rights.

"For those who criticize our permitting Lenny to compete, and perhaps haunt the Cavs in at least four games this season, I can only say that I would rather face that situation than stand in the way of a man who has given all that has been asked of him as a player and a friend in Cleveland for the past two seasons," Fitch said. "I am sure Lenny would do the same thing if he were making the decision."

Weaver: Robby Will Succeed

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Earl Weaver should be so sure who's going to be in the World Series this weekend the way he's so sure what kind of manager Frank Robinson is going to be.

"He was a super ball player and he's going to be the same kind of manager," Weaver says.

Earl Weaver has one or two important things on his mind right now, like trying to beat the Oakland A's in the next few days, so the same thing that happened last year doesn't happen again this year, where he and the rest of the Baltimore Orioles have to go home and catch the World Series on TV or maybe on their automobile radios.

Still, he keeps getting questions fired at him about Frank Robinson, his former star outfielder.

Weaver doesn't seem to mind answering the questions at all because it's perfectly obvious about how he feels about Robinson.

Earl Weaver likes him, and this has nothing to do with color, with white-black understanding or anything like that. Earl Weaver never uses the phrase "first black manager." He doesn't think of Frank Robinson in those terms, which tells you something about his thinking — something good. Weaver thinks of Frank Robinson solely as first year manager of the Cleveland Indians.

"There's no question in my mind at all what kind of manager he's going to make," says Weaver. "One of his greatest attributes is his honesty. So we know he'll do good with the media.

"He's going to be honest with the press, the TV and radio, and with his ball players. He's so honest he's going to step on his players' toes sometimes. I think thats what he liked about me, that I always tried to be honest with him and all my other players.

"Insofar as actual managing is concerned, strategy I suppose you'd call it, Frank isn't going to have any trouble there. We're all about the same in that department. No manager is that much ahead or behind any other one, really.

"Frank will take chances. He won't be strictly a book manager. He'll do things he thinks have to be done, even at the cost of being second-guessed. That's not going to bother him."

Weaver was very happy when he heard the Indians had named Robinson their manager last week.

"I had to be, just by the way the guy performed when he was with this ball club," he says. "The way he slid into second base, broke up the double-play, and ran into the fence up there in Boston. I remember we had something like a six or eight-game lead that year. We're in extra innings with the Red Sox and I don't know who hit the ball—it was down the right field line so it might have been Reggie Smith—and Frank runs into the fence making the catch.

"We get a run the next inning, have another man on third and Frank comes up and bunts to get him in with an insurance run. What I'm saying is I can't forget how he played, how he gave himself up when he was here and I was manager. I'm sure he would have done the same no matter who was the manager. You've got to appreciate that."

Robinson visited briefly with his old Orioles' teammates when they were in Oakland over the weekend for the first two playoff games with the A's.

The Orioles were happy for him getting the Cleveland job. They kidded him about being late for their kangaroo court, over which he used to preside as chief judge.

They were about to fine him a dollar for being "late" but suspended sentence.

Robinson spotted Billy Hunter, one of the Orioles' coaches and an absolute tyrant with a fungo bat.

"Hey, Hitler!" he called out to Hunter laughing.

"Get out of this club house," Hunter growled.

"You ain't one of us anymore." He and Frank Robinson both laughed.

Billy Hunter feels the same way about Cleveland's new manager as Earl Weaver does.

"There isn't one reason in the world why he shouldn't make it," he says.

Bruins Beat Rangers, 7-4

BOSTON (UPI) — Don Cherry remembers a penalty shot a long time ago. Harry Sinden says the last time he saw one was when a Boston Bruin was awarded one a few years back.

Tuesday night, they saw not only one, but two in the same period. A miss by New York and a score by Boston gave the Bruins a double boost in their 7-4 pre-season win over the New York Rangers.

With the Bruins trailing 2-0 in the second period, goalie Gilles Gilbert threw his stick at the puck to prevent a third goal and Ted Irvine was awarded a free shot. Gilbert forced him to shoot wide and Gilbert made sure the puck stayed away from the net by getting a piece of it with his glove.

KHS and Saugerties Are Looking Up at Rest of DCSL

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON

It was high noon at Dietz Stadium. An hour and a half before the kickoff of last Saturday's DCSL football game between John Jay and Kingston High Schools, Maroon coach Tony Badalato stood on the 20 yard line talking about his club.

"I think we're coming," he mused. "But if we don't win today I'm going to have to start thinking about using the people who'll be coming back next year."

By 3:30 Badalato's team had lost its third consecutive game and by 3:45 the KHS coach had probably started his thought process about the future. It's likely, however, that the improvement his club displayed in that wild 28-12 loss to Jay convinced him his first stringers deserve at least another week to get KHS in the victory column.

Unfortunately, two league losses without a win leave Kingston smack dab at the bottom of the standings. Every other club in the DCSL has come out of at least one 48 minute game with more points than the enemy.

So even if Kingston can continue to move with the combined Veer and power triangle offense, and even if KHS can ward off the opposition with its newly bolstered defense, a championship is almost out of the question.

It's a time for what is commonly refered to as "character building."

In a similar situation is Saugerties The one big difference is that Sawyer coach Fred Seither didn't enter the campaign with particularly high hopes.

Nevertheless, Saugerties' 1-2 record is a bit disappointing. When the Sawyers lost to Beacon by only a 6-0 count, then came back to stop Lourdes, it was understandable to expect a SHS win last week at Poughkeepsie. After all, nobody had been losing to Poughkeepsie lately.

What proved to be the Sawyers' undoing was its sputtering offense. When you score only six points, your defense can't afford to yield any touchdowns. Even a defense as good as Saugerties' can't be expected to do that every time out. The Sawyers were tough, but not tough enough.

So here we are approaching the fourth week of the season and the only thing about the league race that's making any sense is that Ketcham is undefeated and apparently on its way to another championship.

Just when everyone thought Arlington was going to provide the Indians with a definite challenge, the Admirals played uninspired football last week and lost to, of all clubs, Our Lady of Lourdes.

Arlington's, a team averaging better than 200 yards a game on the ground and an unheralded Lourdes team stops it with less than 100. Arlington's a team which had displayed a solid defense and allows the Warriors to eat up 207 yards of turf. It doesn't figure.

"The mark of a good team is one that can come back from fumbles and other mistakes," Arlington coach Frank King was quoted as saying. "There's no question we didn't have it today."

It seems like all teams "don't have it' some days in the DCSL. All teams, that is, except Ketcham, which has made the Dutchess League its private party.

The Indians won their first game handilly, sat out a week, took a half against Beacon to warm up, then outscored a good Bulldog team, 18-0, in the second half to win going away. That's bad news for Saugerties and Kingston, Ketcham's next two opponents.

The league's other unbeaten team is Roosevelt. The Presidents are improved, maybe even very good, but it will take a win over Ketcham for them to make believers out of people. And they don't play Ketcham until the last day of the season. Too much can happen before then.

Fallsburgh Topples OCS in Soccer, 3-2

KINGSTON

Pete Rexford took a pass from Don Bennett and shot it past Conrad Earnest at 11:17 of the final period in Fallsburgh Monday to give the Fallsburgh High Comets a come from behind, 3-2 win over Onteora that knocked the Indians from the ranks of the UCAL's soccer unbeatens.

The OCS defeat left New Paltz alone in first place in the league with a 2-0 slate. The Hugies' game against Rondout will be played Saturday as part of homecoming ceremonies at New Paltz. In one other contest played Monday, Coleman got its first victory by ripping Pine Bush, 8-1.

Onteora fell behind the Comets early in the game then staged a second half rally and captured the lead for all 18 seconds. Jim Stoothoff hit for OCS late in the third period to tie the contest at one goal apiece then nailed his second goal 38 seconds into the fourth period.

That was quickly erased, however, as Dave Hinton scored his second goal of the year before the first minute of the quarter elapsed. Hinton took an assist from Rexford to knot the score at 2-2 before Rexford added the winner.

Greg Davis, on an assist from Mark Goldstein, gave Fallsburgh its early lead in the first quarter.

Jon Vilmes scored on a penalty kick for Pine Bush only five minutes into the contest, but the Statesmen were entertaining no thoughts of a third defeat. Joe Schell, Glen Link and Chris Bentley scored two goals apiece, and Charlie Blum and A.J. Maneen added one each as Coleman romped into the victory column.

Maneen assisted both of Bentley's goals and got his own on a fourth period penalty kick. Link's pair gave him four for the year and left him second to New Paltz's Birch Taylor in the individual scoring race.

Rhinebeck Checks SHS In DCSL Soccer, 5 to 1

SAUGERTIES

League leading Rhinebeck High came to town Monday and left it the same way, remaining unbeaten in the DCSL soccer race with a 5-1 victory over host Saugerties.

In other games, Spackenkill managed to stay in third place but needed a 1-0 win in overtime aginst Oakwood to do it; Roosevelt stayed in second with a 2-1 win over Arlington; John Jay played Webutuck to a 1-1 tie; and Ketcham and Poughkeepsie fought to a scoreless deadlock.

It was a sluggish first half in Saugerties, according to Sawyer coach Tony Elia. "Both teams started slowly," he said. "We were just a little worse."

Rhinebeck recovered first and got on the board when Mark Siebold took advantage of the goalie's mistimed leap to make it 1-0 at 9:34. Siebold then assisted the first of Paul Marvin's two goals a minute later, and the Indians were off to their sixth victory.

John Oh-Han scored at 27:25 to give the winners a three-goal halftime lead.

The Sawyers averted the shutout early in the second half with some crisp passwork that found Rich Ridgeway within range. Ridgeway drilled it, but hopes of a Sawyer comeback were dashed when Steve Dahlem pounced on a loose ball in front of the Saugerties goal and made it 4-1 at 15:15.

Marvin, who headed his first shot into the goal in the first half, capped the scoring at 28:35 as he beat one Sawyer fullback down the outside left and slammed a hard boot off the goalie's chest.

State U Netmen Beat ASC, 5-4

LOUDENVILLE

The doubles team of John Fitzharris and Bill Guilfoyle won two pressure-packed tie-breakers as darkness settled over the Sienna College tennis courts Monday enabling New Paltz State to squeak out a 5-4 victory over its upstate hosts.

The match was all even at 4-4 going into the final doubles pairings of the day with Fitzharris and Guilfoyle facing Pete Torrisi and Bill McKenna. The Siena duo won the first set, 6-2, but both coaches then decided to shorten the match to tie-breakers since the contest could never have been finished in the remaining daylight.

"It was quite an exciting match," said New Paltz coach Bob Durkin, whose team lifted its record to 2-2, both wins coming over Siena. "We had never lost to Siena in the school's history and I would have been disappointed if this had been it, especially since we beat them easily earlier in the season."

New Paltz was hampered in the match by the absence of No. 1 player Barry Sacher, who was out with the flu.

In first singles, Terry Fox of Siena beat Sacher's replacement, former No. 2 man, Ken McGrady, 6-4, 6-2. Lee Goldenberg then got a point back for the Hawks with a 7-5 6-2, win over Bernie Corbishley.

Pat Harnett put Siena back up when he beat New Paltz' Larry Kaplan, 6-2, 6-1. But Jon Kulikowski evened matters again with a 5-7, 6-3, 6-2, win over Siena's Pete Torrisi.

The final singles action, Siena's Steve Tessino beat Fitzharris, 3-6, 7-6, 6-1, but Guilfoyle, seeing his first action of the year for the Hawks, stopped Bill Wills, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2.

In doubles, McGrady and Goldenberg beat Fox and Corbishley, 7-6, 6-4; Harnett and Tessino stopped Kaplan and Kulikowski, 6-2, 6-2; and Fitzharris and Guilfoyle won their pivotal match with Terrisi and McKenna.

The Birds are at RPI today and at Binghamton this weekend for the SUNYAC championships.

American Motors Raising Prices $399

DETROIT (UPI) — Small car specialist American Motors is boosting prices of its cars and Jeep vehicles by nearly $400, in line with 1975-model prices set by its larger "Big Three" competitors.

The average $399 boost announced Monday by the smallest of the U.S. auto companies consists of a general $384 boost, including equipment made standard on the '75s, and $15 on selected options. Its cars will be increased an average $330, or 8.5 per cent, AMC said.

The 1975-model AMC vehicles go on sale Nov. 15, almost two months later than those of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler. The company lost three weeks' production because of a strike that ended when work resumed Monday at AMC's Wisconsin plants.

The $399 price boost, excluding any higher destination charges which were not announced by AMC, is in line with similar increases already in effect on "Big Three" models. GM jumped its cars and trucks an average of nearly $450 over 1974 models. Chrysler increased its cars by $415 and Ford upped its car prices by $407.

Despite the higher prices, AMC still will have the lowest-priced U.S.-built car in its subcompact Gremlin at $2,798 —$317 above the final 1974 version but $1 below Chevrolet's subcompact Vega. The Gremlin, the Vega and Ford's Pinto at $2,835, are the only three U.S.-built cars priced below $3,000.

Like other auto industry executives, AMC Chairman Roy D. Chapin predicted that the introductory prices probably would not hold through the new model year because of continuing cost pressures. Some executives predict another round of increases before Christmas.

Gone from AMC's lineup are the sporty Javelin and standard-size Ambassador models. They were scrapped to make room for the better-selling small models as well as the sporty subcompact Pacer AMC will introduce next March.

Iowa Beef Fined in Conspiracy

NEW YORK (AP) — The world's largest beef packing firm was fined $7,000 Monday for a $1 million conspiracy to bribe union and supermarket officials to open the New York market to its boxed meat. A top official also was convicted but escaped penalty.

"In a certain sense, you were a victim of the extortionate practices of certain individuals . . . crooks and fixers, sharks and barracudas," Manhattan State Supreme Court Justice Burton Roberts told Currier J. Holman, co-chairman and co-founder of Iowa Beef Processors, Inc. (IBP).

Roberts presided without a jury at a seven-week trial, and summed up his findings in a decision which he read aloud to the 63-year-old Holman. Upon hearing the findings, but before learning he had been spared any penalty, the defendant said in a choking voice:

"Judge, if I am as guilty as you seem to think I am, I should pay the price. I disagree with your assessment of the facts."

Attorneys for Holman and the firm said the verdicts and fine would be appealed.

Holman could have received a maximum one year and three months in jail, and fines totalling $1,500.

IBP received the maximum fine under the law. Roberts also could have assessed the firm twice whatever gains accrued from the conspiracy, but said he found no proof of any gains. Nor, he added, was there "a scintilla of evidence that one cent of bribe money was ever paid."

Roberts centered his strongest language on Moe Steinman, a New York meat broker and vice president of labor relations for the Daitch-Shopwell chain of New York metropolitan area supermarkets. He faces conspiracy charges similar to those lodged against Holman.

The judge quoted a witness who described Steinman as "a furtive-looking character out of 'Guys and Dolls.'"

"Sadly, like a modern day Dr. Faustus," Roberts added, "Currier J. Holman sold his soul to Moe Steinman."

The state claimed Steinman offered in return for $1 million in payoffs to insure that IBP could get its boxed beef into the multimillion-dollar New York market. Holman was said to have authorized the payment by his firm.

Jackson Hits Oil Problem

SCHENECTADY, New York. (AP) — Forboding "economic disaster" for the United States if the oil problem is not solved, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Monday night President Ford should adopt some of his measures to ease the crisis.

Ford is scheduled to address a joint session of Congress Tuesday to present economic proposals to fight inflation.

"The best politics are no politics," Jackson told an audience in this upstate New York city. He continued, "We are at economic war and at stake is the potential bankruptcy of the Western world."

Jackson said he had sent Ford several proposals that he hopes will figure in the President's address today. They included limiting the price of domestic crude oil to reflect its longer supply price, a freeze on total dollar outlays for oil imports and a taxation of windfall oil and gas profits.

Asked by the Freedom Forum, a local nonprofit organization, to talk on the crucial issues facing the nation, Jackson said the crucial issues are one issue — oil.

"Our country is in the midst of a business recession and economic depression," said the Democratic Presidential hopeful, because the price of imported oil has quadrupled in the last 12 months.

The senator urged expansion of the nation's emergency petroleum reserves that might be used in case of another foreign embargo. Americans must "pull in their belts," he said. He urged Congress to impose a mandatory fuel conservation plan.

Among the measures he said Congress should adopt was ordering auto makers to produce smaller engines and smaller cars. But he criticized a proposal for a 10-cent additional tax on gasoline, saying it would hurt the poor and the working class.

Regarding foreign oil embargoes, Jackson said there should be more cooperation among allies in sharing oil reserves.

"All this is an effort to send the right signal to the Arab world that we will not be subject to blackmail. We will not knuckle under. We will meet this emergency with the same speed that we would in all-out war," he said.

Jackson declined comment on questions from reporters regarding his Presidential aspirations.

Reduced Plea in Kidnaping

MAYVILLE, N.Y. (UPI) — Martin C. Whitmore, 18, of West Ellicott, accused of murder and kidnaping in the slaying of 14-year-old Daniel Ebersole last January, has been allowed to plead guilty to a reduced charge of second-degree kidnaping.

Whitmore entered the plea Monday and Chautauqua County Court Judge Lee Towne Adams dropped the murder charge.

A jury found Whitmore guilty of grand larceny last week, but was unable to reach a verdict on the other charges, and Adams dismissed the jurors.

Assistant District Attorney W. Park Catchpole said it was his belief that the reduced charge plea was "in the best interests of justice."

Adams set sentencing for Nov. 4, the same day Whitmore is scheduled to be sentenced on the grand larceny conviction.

In recommending the reduced plea, Catchpole said he felt it would have been impossible to have anything other than another hung jury if the case was to come up again "in the near future."

The maximum sentence for second-degree kidnaping is 25 years and the maximum for grand larceny is 15 years.

Whitmore had been accused in the kidnaping and slaying of Ebersole, son of a Lakewood radiologist. The boy's body was found tied to a tree Jan. 13, four days after he disappeared.

Speaking of Bombs... Should Howard Testify?

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Should Howard Cosell be called to testify?

A motion to subpoena the sportscaster was argued Monday in U.S. District Court here in the case of a Lackawanna man charged with threatening to blow Cosell up last year during a Monday night football game at Rich Stadium.

Attorney Samuel Perla, representing Marian G. Batko, 28, who is accused of mailing the threat to Cosell on a postcard, argued the motion before Judge John T. Curtin.

"At a time when we're subpoenaing the former President and cabinet officers, Mr. Cosell is too busy to testify," Perla said. "And he doesn't even have phlebitis."

You're subpoenaing them?" Curtin interjected.

"I'd feel remiss," Perla continued "if we didn't have Mr. Cosell here in his own case. If he isn't here, what are we doing here?"

Batko was arrested by federal authorities after the postcard was intercepted by postal officials and traced to the defendant.

Perla said Cosell's "abrasive personality and obnoxious character" invite attack.

"He makes his money this way," Perla argued.

Curtin reserved decision on the matter.

DOT Hoping For Oct. 31 Bid Opening

KINGSTON

Department of Transportation officials are shooting for an Oct. 31 bid opening date on the Murray Street-Meadow Street section of the proposed Kingston North-South Arterial, the Freeman has learned.

Officials at regional headquarters in Poughkeepsie said that the earliest possible date for bid opening would be the 31st and that all efforts are being made to meet that date in order to get the "Rondout Bypass" into construction as soon as possible.

A DOT spokesman told the Freeman that final plans for the 1,000 feet of four-lane highway were forwarded to Albany for review in mid-July. He said it normally takes from 12 to 14 weeks for final state approval.

The Murray-Meadow connection was requested by city officials because of the problem of thru traffic in and out of the 135-unit Rondout Gardens which as a high concentration of senior citizens and children. The project was funded in this year's state budget.

State officials point out that the Murray-Meadow connection can "stand entirely on its own" or that it can be plugged into the 2.48-mile Kingston North-South Arterial once final approvals come through, probably in June of next year.

House Fire In Ellenville

ELLENVILLE

Fire of undetermined origin gutted an Ellenville residence early today only a few hours after the owner and occupant, Mrs. Amanda Depuy, had gone to the hospital.

The blaze was discovered at the one-story house at 21 Lincoln Street at about 3 a.m.

Ellenville fireman battled the flames until about 7 a.m.

Mrs. Depuy had reportedly gone to the hospital around midnight to be treated for an asthma condition, and no one was home when the fire was discovered.

There were no injuries reported.

Jury Charges Oil Companies Knew of Crunch

NEW YORK (AP) — A special state grand jury says the country's major oil companies knew in advance that last year's fuel shortages would occur but did not use their available resources to make enough petroleum products to avoid the energy crunch.

And the shortages did "render the nation particularly vulnerable" to last year's Arab oil embargo, the special panel added in a presentment handed up Monday in Manhattan's state Supreme Court.

The special body said "the evidence clearly shows that the petroleum industry did not produce sufficient petroleum products (including gasoline and fuel oil) during the first six months of 1972 to keep up with increased demand" that would peak a year later.

The report said this was true "even though the industry at the time possessed the over-all capability (to produce sufficient products), both in terms of refinery capacity and availability of crude oil."

In announcing the grand jury findings, state Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz said, "It's a fair question to ask whether the Arabs would have imposed the embargo at all if the nation had adequate reserves."

U.S. Dollar Shows Gain

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The U.S. dollar gained in all major European markets today for the first time in two weeks.

In London the price of gold dropped 25 cents to $156.75 and then fell to $155.75 at the morning price fixing. In Zurich, the drop was $2 to $155 at the opening. Monday's closing price of $157 was the highest since June 14.

In Paris, where the dollar opened at 4.75 French francs, up from Monday's close of 4.7525, a bank trader said the gain was caused by optimism in connection with President Ford's scheduled speech on inflation today. By mid-morning, the dollar had progressed to 4.7725 francs.

The American currency made other fractional gains in Frankfurt, Zurich, London, Amsterdam and Brussels.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices continued the strong rally today it began the previous session, as traders anticipated a strong anti-inflationary stand by President Ford.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed nearly a point, and gainers held a broad lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

The current buying stems from optimism that President Ford, in his economic address to Congress due today, will lay out a program aimed at effectively stemming the current inflation.

The continued trend toward somewhat easier interest rate levels has also cheered Wall Street. Many major banks have responded to declining short-term interest rates by lowering their prime lending rates by ¼ point to 11¾ per cent.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The area that still bears the closest watch today concerns family related issues. Impatience in coping with matters must be suppressed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If shopping today, ask yourself before each purchase if it is something that you really should put the cas.. out for.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You will yeild to pressure from another. You'll suddenly change your mind about something that you know you shouldn't, in order to pacify.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll let the cat out of the bag regarding something you wanted kept secret, by talking without thinking.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

AN ANSWER: (Comment) The first thing that "16 and Crazy," who is upset and planning to run away, should do is talk to her parents. It isn't easy, but it is a first step.

I had an experience such as she talked about in her letter to you. Ten years ago I ran away. Scared and homesick, I was picked up by the police and sent home. Two years later, still emotionally at sea, I married a boy I didn't love. My father died about the same time. Three years after that there was a divorce.

Now I am married to a wonderful guy and can see the mistakes I made. I didn't talk to my father and mother when I had a chance. I didn't get involved with other people. I do now. In helping others we can forget our own insecurities. God bless "16 and Crazy." I hope she will find the way.—One who finally did in Maine.

(A.) Finding the way is so simple, but so many fail to find it. Thanks for your guideposts. They are excellent.

NO RING: (Q.) Last March Chip promised me a pre-engagement ring. That was more than six months ago and he still hasn't given it to me. He treats me great, but I want the ring.

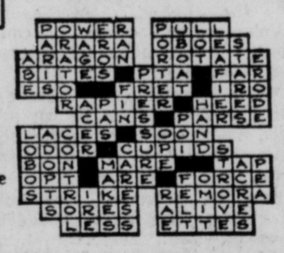

My friends say I should ask him about it, but I don't know how. Why hasn't he given it to me? How can I ask him about it?—Disappointed in Massachusetts.

(A.) Do not ask him. It may be a matter of money, or it may be something else. If he is kind and attentive and loving, that is worth much more than a ring.

It really doesn't matter if South is playing three, six or seven notrump. That is, it doesn't matter to his man interested only in good technical play. To the man interested in big swings, the play becomes really important when the contract is seven. So we have had North bid the grand slam.

South counts 12 top tricks. At first glance it appears that the best play for the grand slam is to take a heart finesse. Now if you look at the East-West hands you will see that the finesse is going to lose, but if South just plays dummy's ace and king the queen will drop.

As the cards lie South is sure to take all 13 tricks by means of what has been called a "Count" squeee.

He wins the spade lead in dummy and runs off three tricks in each minor suit. West shows out on the second diamond lead and third club lead.

South cashes one high heart and comes back to his own hand with the king of spades. East shows out and South knows that West started with six spades and four hearts. South can now claim the grand slam because when he cashed the last club and diamond, West will have to discard down to one heart and the jack of spades. The heart queen will drop wherever it is.

CONGRATULATIONS FROM THE TOP—Retiring U. S. Sen. George D. Aiken (L) looks up at a smiling President Gerald Ford during a dinner honoring Sen. Aiken at the University of Vermont. It was the President's first trip from Washingon since his wife was hospitalized. (UPI) Telephoto).

Ford Talks, Hundreds Protest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Monday launched a personal campaign tour on behalf of GOP candidates at a fund-raising dinner in Burlington, Vt. Outside, hundreds of demonstrators loudly protested the pardon of former President Nixon.

Ford used the occasion to preview some anti-inflationary proposals he will present today before a nationally televised joint session of Congress.

He was met by several hundred vocal sign-waving young demonstrators at a reception near the University of Vermont campus after arriving there for a $50-a-plate dinner for retiring Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., at the university gymanisum.

The protesters booed, chanted oppostion to the month-old Nixon pardon and shouted: "Jail Nixon," "Junk that Ford" and "No pardon."

Several youths carried a large sign reading: "Nixon, Ford, what's the difference?" Another read, "Jerry, you old rattler."

Once on the campus Ford went directly into the gymanisum where he received a standing ovation from the some 2,000 friendly Republicans.

In his address Ford urged strong support of the two party system, called for an individual effort by Americans to curb inflation, and promised "to halt the rise in prices and problems it forces onto each one of us."

Ford left the gymnasium by a rear exit but several hundred protesters waited for him on the campus yelling obscenities as he got into his limousine. Several firecrackers were thrown.

Neither Ford nor his press secretary Ron Nessen had anything to say about the protests on the flight back to Washington.

Nessen said upon his return Ford called his wife, Betty, at Bethesda Naval Hospital where she is recovering from breast surgery.

Appearance May Be Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of a House Judiciary subcommittee are reported agreed on postponing President Ford's historic appearance Thursday for a week if the Watergate cover-up trial jury has not been sequestered by then.

Chairman William L. Hungate, D-Mo., said the subcommittee "will make a decision one way or the other (this) afternoon and announce it." He said Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski had expressed concern over pretrial publicity from the Ford appearance.

Rep. Wiley Mayne, R-Iowa, said he was the only member that strongly objected to the postponement at a closed-door subcommittee meeting Monday.

He said that although no vote was taken to measure sentiment then, several other members argued Ford's appearance should be postponed until the following Thursday if the jury has not been picked and sequestered.

In what research indicates may be a presidential first, Ford has promised to answer 14 questions before the subcommittee on his pardon for former President Richard M. Nixon.

Jury selection was slow and prospects appeared poor that it could be completed and the jurors sequestered and thus shielded from newspapers and news broadcasts before the Thursday appearance.

Emerging from the closed-door questioning Monday, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica said good progress was being made in selecting a panel from which the final 12 jurors and 6 alternates will be drawn. He said he hoped to seat the jury by the end of the week.

But the prosecution suggested an easing of requirements to speed the procedure even further, indicating indirectly that there is difficulty in finding an unbiased jury in the much-publized case.

In a memorandum, the government suggested that individuals with "lightly held" or "casual" opinions might be acceptable.

Sirica and lawyers for the five cover-up conspiracy defendants spent two extra hours in court Monday to get through their slow-moving task. A spokesman for the judge said he had not been in touch with Hungate or House Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., about the Ford appearance.

The search for a jury was in its sixth day today.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said as far as the White House was concerned Ford's appearance was still scheduled for Thursday and any decision on postponing it would be up to the subcommittee.

Hungate has said he does not plan to put Ford under oath. He said no other witnesses in the proceeding have been put under oath and that it is rare for the committee to take that action. Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., had called for the committee to put Ford under oath.

Rocky's Gifts Numerous

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice presidential nominee Nelson A. Rockefeller has given generous gifts to close personal aides and sizeable campaign contributions to a number of leading Republicans, according to a series of reports published today.

The reports said a number of persons who served the former governor of New York received outright gifts from Rockefeller and that Republicans throughout the nation had been given contributions from the nominee or his family.

The Washington Post reported that William J. Ronan, head of the New York Port Authority and Rockefeller's one-time chief of staff as governor, had received a $500,000 gift.

Gannett News Service also said Rockefeller's press secretary, Hugh Morrow, received a $100,000 gift.

Rockefeller and his family have also given major contributions to a number of Republican House and Senate members who will vote on his confirmation as vice-president.

It was reported earlier this week that Rockefeller had given $50,000 to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger when he resigned as Rockefeller's foreign affairs advisor to hold a similiar post in the Nixon administration.

Kissinger released the letter making the gift Monday at his State Department news conference.

"As a token of my friendship and appreciation for the work you have done in service to the people of this country," Rockefeller wrote, "I am arranging to have a gift made to you in the amount of $50,000."

Asked about it, Kissinger replied that he had referred the question to two lawyers for former President Nixon, Egil Krogh and Edward L. Morgan.

"He gave me a written statement . . . in which he pointed out that it was neither contrary to any law or statute nor involved any impropriety," Kissinger said.

"Only after I had that written statement did I proceed, and then I put the money in trust for my children and did not benefit."

A Rockefeller spokesman said gift taxes were paid on the money given Kissinger who, in turn, paid gift taxes when they were transferred to his children.

Gannett said Morrow, who has been Rockefeller's spokesman for more than a decade, received the money after banks foreclosed a loan he had taken out for three sons who were in college and two members of his family who suffered major illnesses. One died of cancer.

Curbing Use of Petroleum

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Energy chief John C. Sawhill said today three ways being considered to curb petroleum use in America are a horsepower tax on automobiles, voluntary self-control, and import duties on oil and oil products.

The government's attitude toward nonautomobile petroleum use also will have a big impact on coal, Sawhill said in a speech prepared for the American Mining Congress in Las Vegas but released in Washington.

"We are striving to change the country's love affair with the private car," he said. "The automobile is about the least efficient way to move people from place to place in an urban area.

"To break the automobile's grip on American transportation habits, we need strong disincentives to urban auto use," he said.

"One possibility we are considering is a horsepower tax on new automobiles, graduated upward as engine size increases and fuel economy decreases. This could encourage buyers to purchase more efficient cars," he said.

"Another option is increased import fees levied on crude oil and petroleum products, which would raise prices and discourage consumption," he said.

"Still another important factor is the voluntary cooperation of the public," he said. "Voluntary self-control . . . can go far toward achieving essential reductions in energy use."

While petroleum was scarce, the United States is known as "the Saudi Arabia of Coal," he said, but he added that the resource is under-used.

Sawhill suggested several possibilities for inducing additional coal use:

"We can amend the Clean Air Act to allow, for the time being at least, the burning of high-sulfur coal in electric generating plants.

"We can prohibit the burning of oil in new homes, insisting on the use of electricity — generated with coal and nuclear power.

"By greatly increasing electricity consumption in the residential and commercial sectors and for industrial space heating, coal demand could be increased.

"Large scale conversions of power plants to coal, along with requirements that new power plants burn coal, could increase coal demand," he said.

Voluntary Sales System

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Stung by a near repeat of the 1972 Soviet wheat fiasco, the Agriculture Department Monday revealed a hastily drawn-up voluntary system designed to keep track of major grain sales to foreign countries.

The system was announced by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz in the wake of the revelation Friday night that two giant grain exporting firms had negotiated sales of 3.4 million tons of wheat and corn to the Soviet Union.

Following a "jawboning" session at the White House, the companies —Continental Grain Co. of New York and Cook Industries of Memphis, Tenn. — agreed to postpone their sales.

Butz said prior Agriculture Department approval will now be required for large export sales.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., has called Butz and the grain company officials to testify before his permanent investigations subcommittee today to clear up questions surrounding the ill-fated deal.

The hearings open amid conflicting reports from Butz and the companies as to just how much the Agriculture Department knew about the contracts before late last week.

The companies said Monday they cleared the sales in advance with the Agriculture Department, but Butz said he did not know about it until after the fact.

At the White House, presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen said President Ford does not blame the Agriculture Department for the mixup. "We hope," he said, "that some of this grain will eventually be sold to the Russians."

Butz said he will rely on the good faith of the grain exporters to keep the department infrmed about what they are selling, to whom and in what quantities.

The system is not designed to put a damper on the export market for U.S. farm goods, he said, nor is it intended to single out any one country for lower export shipments.

By requiring prior approval Butz said, the Agriculture Department will be able to head off sales that could disrupt the market and assure a fair distribution of feed grains to all nations.

Just how short this year's corn and soybean crops will be as a result of premature midwestern frosts won't be known until Thursday, when the department releases its October crop report, but Butz said private reports indicate a "substantial" loss of corn.

Although the reporting system will not be mandatory, Butz said he expected exporters to cooperate.

A Plea to the UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union, Cuba and seven delegations of the East European bloc have called for the United Nations to intervene in behalf of imprisoned leftists in Chile.

They made the call during a debate Monday at the General Assembly in which Cuba assailed U.S. Ambassador John A. Scali as "a complete liar" for denying Central Intelligence Agency involvement in the coup against Chilean President Salvador Allende a year ago.

The Russians, Cuba and all Warsaw Pact countries except Romania joined the debate in which tempers flared.

Reflecting Soviet-American detente, all but Cuba limited their fire to Chile. Several said an official request will go to U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim demanding U.N. help in freeing leading Chilean leftists such as Communist party chief Luis Corvalon.

Chilean delegate Sergio Diez replied that the world is welcome to observe developments in Chile, but he said his country rejects "the scandalous intervention by the Soviet imperialists." He said Corvalon is facing treason charges and would be given a fair trial.

The Chilean government admits that hundreds of leftists are jailed.

Cuba made the United States the main target of two fiery speeches, including the unusual personal attack on Scali by Cuban Ambassador Ricardo Alarcon.

In the first Cuban salvo, Foreign Minister Raul Roa attacked CIA spending in Chile and accused Washington of bullying oil-producing countries. Scali could have replied in the assembly but didn't, instead issuing a news release in which he accused Roa of relying "on the tools of slander, invective and personal insult.

"I categorically reject his scurrilous attacks on the United States and his tiresome allegations of United States responsibility for the events in Chile," the release said.

A short while later, on the floor of the assembly, Alarcon referred to Scali by name and to the press release, declaring:

"I full well understand that the representative of the United States would not wish to come to this rostrum and repeat before you what was alleged in this little piece of paper. You . . . undoubtedly have had an opportunity to observe that such an affirmation . . . can only be interpreted to mean that as a diplomat he is a complete liar. . . ."

Roa made reference to recent American press reports on CIA intervention in Chilean affairs and President Ford's comments Sept. 17 in a news conference confirming that the CIA worked covertly in Chile during the Allende presidency.
